GREAT HEAT WAVE VISITS PRAIRIE REGION

BOEING AIRCRAFT TO ESSAY FLIGHT FROM SEATTLE TO 'FRISCO

Air Mail Pilot, Eddie Hubbard, to Pilot Machine on Test Trip for U. S. Officials; Extensions to Pacific Coast Air Mail Carriage May Follow.

Test pilot for the Boeing Aircraft Factory since 1910, Eddie Hubbard, genial air mail pilot of Seattle-Victoria mail flight fame, is now engaged on the most daring adventure of his career. With an aeroplane specially designed for the work by the Boeing interests Hubbard plans to hop off from Seattle in a flight to San Francisco.

The flight is to be undertaken in the hope of demonstrating the practicability of such a service in the carriage of air mails. Eddie was ready to go yesterday and awaits only the word from the weather bureau which will send his machine taxing across the waters of Lake Union on the hop-off for his new venture.

If the new Boeing machine stands up to the Government tests, extensions to the air mail routes on the Pacific may be considered in all seriousness, it is stated.

For four years now Hubbard has made on the average of ten trips a month to Victoria from Seattle, never in all that time being late with his mails to catch outgoing boats five hours after they had cast off their cables at Seattle. Similarly he has met incoming craft and rushed the urgent matter to Seattle where it went on to trains a day ahead of the regular mail carried on the steamer.

AN AIR VETERAN

Hubbard has had interesting career in aviation circles. As early as 1910 he was flying regularly as test pilot for the Boeing company. When war broke out Hubbard, one of the leading airmen of his country, was taken for instructional purposes and spent years in putting American war pilots through their paces for service overseas.

When the world returned to the pursuits of peace Hubbard returned to Seattle and again became identified with the Boeing interests.

When the air mail project between Seattle and Victoria was first mooted Canada was asked to co-operate in the service but declined the offer at that time. The U. S. postal authorities, however, pushed the service through to completion and Hubbard won the contract from an open field. He has been successful in successive bids, almost without intermission ever since.

POPULAR SERVICE

The Seattle-Victoria air mail route has carried over 1,100,000 letters a year for the first few years of its existence. That figure has grown and to-day the service is in heavier demand than ever. Through the fast mail service Seattle business men say they have been placed a day ahead of the southern competitors in San Francisco, and this advantage is one that is jealously guarded in the the rush for Orient trade.

Hubbard has many friends on the waterfront in Victoria, to which port he has been almost a daily visitor for the past four years. These will wish him well on what is the most daring undertaking of his career, with the possible exception of instructional flying which is perhaps the greatest risk an airman is called upon to take.

THIEVES RAID LIQUOR STORE

Government Vendor's at Parksville Broken Into on Saturday Night

The second raid on the Government Liquor Vendor's store at Parksville within recent months took place Saturday night, according to word received at the headquarters of the Provincial police here to-day.

The store was entered under the cover of darkness and liquor removed. The details of the robbery are not known yet but the loss is said to have been confined to a few cases. Provincial police officers have the matter in hand.

A few months ago the same store was entered by thieves who made a considerable haul, it is stated.

LIVERPOOL POLICE DISPERSED RIOTERS

Liverpool, July 14—Energetic police action prevented a clash between Orangemen and Sinn Feiners here last night when the contact of big rival factions in the streets threatened a reproduction of Saturday night's riotous scenes in Glasgow.

Fighting actually began, but a strong force of mounted police dispersed the combatants.

Hotel, Stadium and Wharf May go up on Salt Spring Island

According to information received from Ganges to-day, negotiations are pending for the erection of a commodious hotel, stadium and wharf on Salt Spring Island. During the past year the possibilities of the Gulf Islands in connection with tourist business have been frequently commented upon and Walker's Hook, the site of the proposed developments is ideally situated for a Summer resort. Information from Ganges states that representatives of a big corporation are now surveying the property of William Caldwell on Salt Spring Island and there is every possibility that the location will be found suitable for the purpose planned.

FINAL FIGURES SHOW BIG DROP IN RACE WAGERS

Lansdowne Bets Far Below Those of Last Year, Returns Indicate

Australian Totalizators at Willows This Year

Final figures for the Landsdowne Park race meet, issued here to-day, show a big drop in wagers below the figures for corresponding days of racing at Landsdowne last year. The wagers for the three-day meet this year totalled $279,520 as against $304,181 for the first three days of last year's longer meet.

On the last day of the meet this year $113,960 was wagered as against $96,178 last year. The increase this year is due to the fact that the third day of racing was a Saturday, when large crowds flock to the race tracks. Last year the third day was a Friday. A more significant figure is the comparison between the wagers of the Saturdays this year and last year. This shows that last year's Saturday wagers were much heavier than this season, totalling $135,000.

Race track followers here will experience a novelty when the races start in Victoria shortly. Their money will be handled this season by the Australian totalizer, a machine which has given great satisfaction on Australian tracks.

FORTY KILLED

Melilla, July 14—Forty Moroccan tribesmen were killed and about sixty wounded in an encounter with a contingent of natives attached to the French forces near the border of the Spanish zone.

MAILLARDVILLE LIQUOR THEFT

New Westminster, July 14.—Liquor valued at between $100 and $200 was stolen last night from the Government liquor store at Maillardville near here, by thieves, evidently novices in crime.

BURGLARS ENTER GENERAL STORE AT MIDNIGHT

Rifle Safe of $116 While Owners Sleep

Bore Holes in Wooden Panel to Gain Entrance

Burglars at midnight last night broke into the Royal Oak General Store, rifled the safe of $116, took the cash register outside and pried it open to obtain the small change. William Scholey the proprietor, his wife and son, slept undisturbed above the store. Frank Lyford slumbered in the basement during the operations of the burglars.

Entry to the store was obtained by boring almost fifty holes in the lower wooden panel of the glassed front door, a new brace and two bits being left behind by the thieves.

Mr. Scholey and his family retired at 10.30 o'clock last night, after assuring themselves that the store was well closed. For the first time since taking over the business some time ago, Mr. Scholey omitted to lock the safe, leaving the combination open, though the door was closed. At 11 o'clock Motorcycle Constable Rankin passed the store and noted that everything was in order, but when Mr. Scholey came into the store, at 7 o'clock this morning, the front door was swinging, with panel cleanly removed. Constable Rankin was called, and finger print experts from the Victoria force were soon on the scene, finding a number of excellent impressions. It is the opinion of the Saanich authorities that the burglary was performed by one or more men from Victoria, possibly with the aid of watchers on the highway, which is well traveled at all hours of the night.

EARLY CHINA CONFERENCE IS URGED IN U.S.

Coolidge Says Extra-Territorial Rights Should be Discussed Soon

Little Likelihood of Shanghai Conference Starting Soon, States Peking Dispatch

Swampscott, Mass., July 14—President Coolidge hopes conditions will be such that a conference can be held in the near future for a discussion of extra-territorial rights in China, as well as Chinese customs.

DEADLOCK UNBROKEN

Peking, July 14.—There is little prospect of an early commencement of negotiations over the Shanghai affair growing out of the strike in the foreign-owned cotton mills and the subsequent rioting.

The deadlock between the Shanghai municipal authorities and the diplomatic corps over the question of jurisdiction, which afforded grounds for the French Minister's retirement from the diplomatic commission, remains unbroken.

Diplomatic quarters profess not to know whether another delegate will be appointed in place of Count de

PRINCE OF WALES HELPED TO FIGHT FIRE IN AFRICA

Kafue, Rhodesia, July 14.—The Prince of Wales played the part of a fireman to-day when he assisted settlers in extinguishing a fire in a native wood and grass children's house at the Kafue Agricultural Show. All of the children were rescued.

TRAIN KILLED THREE INDIANS

Albany, N.Y., July 14—Three Indians, performers with a circus here, were killed to-day when run down by a railroad train. Members of the circus company told investigating authorities they had seen the three men leave the Indian sleeping car and seat themselves on the tracks to smoke.

DISCOVERY OF CANCER GERM LEADS TO NEW HOPES CURE WILL BE FOUND

London, July 14—The Lancet, the leading British medical journal, in its forthcoming issue will emphasize the importance of the discovery of the cancer germ by Dr. William E. Gye, a member of the British Institute of Medical Research, and Dr. J. E. Barnard of King's College, London. The Lancet considers this discovery as marking an event in the history of medicine.

"The experiments of Doctors Gye and Barnard contain no suggestion that a cure for cancer has been discovered," The Lancet says, "but they point the way to further bio-chemical work, while strikingly reconciling much conflicting theory."

BARNARD IS HATTER

Dr. Barnard is a member of the firm of William Barnard & Sons, hatters, of Jermyn Street, London, and has achieved sudden fame as co-discoverer with Dr. Gye of what biologists say "may represent a solution of the central problem of cancer."

Dr. Barnard adopted microscopy as a hobby about thirty years ago and soon became engrossed in it. It was the enthusiasm of a young and ardent man, but it seems never to have entirely distracted his attention from the business in which he was brought up and which furnished him with funds to indulge his hobby, so through the long years he divided his time between the hat shop and private scientific investigations through the microscope.

ACHIEVEMENTS RECOGNIZED

He rapidly became an amateur in the fullest and best sense of the word, until he reached a degree of eminence as a microscopist unsurpassed by the keenest professional. He is not only lecturer in microscopy at King's College, a Fellow of the Institute of Physics and director of the department of applied optics of the National Institute for Medical Research, but he has achieved that coveted distinction, a Fellowship in the Royal Society.

AVOIDS PUBLICITY

Dr. Barnard, like his colleague, Dr. Gye, is a very modest man and shuns any sort of publicity. The newspapermen found him in his hat shop yesterday attending to business as usual. He was reluctant to talk of the discovery and especially anxious to emphasize the fact that neither Dr. Gye nor himself claimed to have done anything toward finding a cure for the terrible disease which has been the subject of their investigations for a long time.

The discovery, he said, had been made nearly a year ago and he wished the secrets had been kept longer, as he feared some sufferers from the disease might be encouraged

NEWSPAPER REPORT

London, July 14 (Canadian Press Cable)—It has been rumored that J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary in the late Labor Government, and John W. Wheatley are negotiating, each against the other, for the purchase of Reynolds's Illustrated News, but this is denied in The London Morning Post.

ACCIDENT LIST OF DEATHS THREE

Nelson, July 14.—R. A. Davies of Nelson, a deckhand on the C. P.R. steamer Kuskanook, died early this morning in the hospital at Kaslo from scalds received when the water trap on the steampipe feeding the engine of the vessel exploded early Monday morning.

Davies' companions, John E. Parker of Nelson and H. Forbes of Vermilion, Alberta, succumbed to their injuries Monday.

BOMB WENT OFF IN COURT

New York, July 14. — A bomb exploded to-day in Magistrate Farrell's division of the traffic court, but caused no serious damage. Court attendants and defendants in the courtroom dashed out through the doors and windows. The magistrate was the calmest person in the room, remaining in his seat and banging his gavel for order while men and women scrambled down the aisles to safety.

The magistrate said he had no enemies and was at a loss to account for the explosion.

NO DEFENCE WAS ASKED

Toronto, July 14.—Complete vindication of John Ardagh Scythes of Toronto, president of Scythes & Company, manufacturers, in connection with the charge of theft laid by Harry B. Jagoe of Vancouver, was made to-day by Magistrate Jones here in a written judgment in which he found as follows:

"The accused was charged with stealing $13,000, the property of Scythes & Company Limited, in the year 1920. I heard at some length the evidence tendered by the crown and am of the opinion no case of theft has been made out or any criminal act or intent and that the accused is not called upon to tender any evidence in his defence."

INJUNCTION NOT OPPOSED BY COWPER

Vancouver Weekly Tribune Will Not Publish Comments on Osler Avenue Home

Vancouver, July 14—Without opposition, Frederick L. Baker and his wife, Doreen, obtained from Mr. Justice Murphy to-day an injunction enjoining Cowan & Brookhouse Limited and John Sedgwick Cowper, printers and editor, respectively, of The Vancouver Saturday Tribune, from publishing comment on the subject matter of the defamatory libel charge pending against Cowper.

A large assembly of lawyers and auditors, who expected a strenuous contest, was surprised by Cowper's announcement he was not opposing the application when the case was called in Supreme Court chambers.

"I am not opposing the application, which is to restrain the publication of comment on an action for

Kolapore Cup Won To-day By Canada's Bisley Team

Bisley Camp, July 14 (Canadian Press Cable)—The most exciting finish in the annual competition for the Rajah of Kolapore's Challenge Cup since the event was established in 1911, when Canada tied with the Old Country but lost the cup through having a poorer score at the longest range, 600 yards, was witnessed today when Canada came off victorious in that great event.

The contest is open to teams of eight present or past members of the military forces of the Empire.

When four of the members of the Canadian team had finished shooting at the 600-yard range to-day the Canadian and British teams were exactly equal. In the firing for the remainder of the match the rival markemen scored bullseye for bullseye or dropped point for point, but during the last half dozen shots the Canadians maintained their string of bullseyes and made the aggregate score of 1,059 out of a possible 1,200. Great Britain followed closely with 1,093.

Rhodesia's team aggregated 1,088; Guernsey, 1,073; India, 1,066 and Jersey, 1,049.

The individual Canadian scores at the 600-yard range were as follows: Burke, Gray and Tiers, 47 each; Crowe, 46; Elmsile, Parnell and Wilson, 44; Harvey 43.

The Canadian team was coached by Lieut. Alex Martin, Calgary.

This is the ninth Kolapore competition won by a Canadian team. The last previous victory in the big shoot was in 1909.

SCOPES MEN OBJECTED TO COURT PRAYER

Said Practice at Evolution Trial Likely to Influence Minds of Jurors

Objection at Hearing in Dayton, Tennessee, Overruled By Judge Raulston

Dayton, Tenn., July 14—An objection by Clarence Darrow, one of the defence counsel, to the daily custom of prayer in court created intense excitement for a few minutes at the short sessions of the evolution trial of John T. Scopes here this morning. Judge John T. Raulston overruled the objection, and then ordered a court recess until 1 o'clock that he might complete the preparation of his opinion on the motion of the defence to quash the indictment, argued yesterday.

Soon after Judge Raulston mounted the bench, Clarence Darrow stepped forward and said:

"I want to protest, your honor, at prayer being offered here daily in the presence of the jury in this case.

"I do not object to any one praying in private, but I do object to this court being turned into a meeting house."

NOT A CUSTOM

Dudley Field Malone was just behind his colleague with an inquiry if it had always been the custom to have prayer in court every day.

"As a member of counsel for the defence who is not an agnostic," he said, "I desire to add my objection to daily prayer being offered here when it has not been an exacting and unbroken custom in the past.

Cardinal Begin, Ill in Quebec, is Slightly Stronger

Quebec, July 14.—"The Cardinal's condition is satisfactory at present and there is a little improvement."

This was the statement made this morning by Dr. Edwin Turcot, who with Dr. A. Paquet is attending Cardinal Begin.

The venerable prelate passed a peaceful day yesterday, which was followed by a quiet night, and his doctors have hope he will recover from his illness. He is eighty-five years of age.

PEOPLE IN CENTRAL PART OF CONTINENT SUFFER WHILE MERCURY IS AT HIGH LEVELS

For Several Days Region East of Rocky Mountains Has Been in Grip of Unwelcome Summer Wave; Regina Thermometers Showed 93 in Shade at Noon To-day.

Winnipeg, July 14—Keeping pace with the records being established in parts of the United States, the Canadian prairies to-day continued to broil in the most intense and prolonged heat wave of the year.

Everywhere on the plains the temperature approached the century mark, and with no immediate relief in sight, indications point to new high marks being reached in many districts.

Throughout the prairie region the mercury hovered around the 99 level yesterday.

Rain is badly needed in many districts to save the crops. Southeastern Alberta is most affected in this respect, where drought has laid many fields almost bare.

BREEZE AT REGINA

Regina, July 14.—At noon to-day the thermometer here was standing at 93 in the shade, or four degrees more than at noon yesterday. There is a fairly strong wind blowing from the southwest which brings considerable relief and conditions are no worse than yesterday and much better than Sunday, despite the rise in temperature.

MOOSEJAW SUFFERS

Moose Jaw, July 14.—This city and district are sweltering in the fourth day of a great heat wave. At 11 a.m. the mercury stood at 88. The barometer is steady and the sky without a cloud. A slight breeze is making the heat more bearable than on Sunday and yesterday.

The heat wave on the prairies to-day is the northern part of a great wave which has had the central portion of the continent in its grip for several days. The highest temperature yesterday was reported at Phoenix, Arizona, where the mercury went up to 112. The highest temperature reported in the Middle West of the United States was at North Platte, Nebraska, where 104 was registered. Temperatures ranging from 90 to 100 were reported from many points.

In the United States yesterday fourteen persons died as a result of the heat. Five persons were killed by lightning.

EARL HAIG AND PARTY LEAVE FOR VANCOUVER

Crowd at Wharf Bids "Au Revoir" to Great Soldier

Victoria said "au revoir" to-day to Field Marshal Haig. It was "au revoir" rather than farewell for many of the returned veterans in the big crowd gathered at the C.P.R. wharf expressed the hope that the distinguished general would again visit this most westerly point of Empire and so help along the cause of Empire unity.

There was no official leave-taking as Earl and Lady Haig and their personal party and the delegates of the British Service Empire League boarded the Canadian Pacific Railway steamer Princess Marguerite for the journey to Vancouver, on the first lap of their return trip across the Dominion. But a throng of citizens including many ex-service men had gathered to catch a last glimpse of the popular soldier and give him a final cheer.

The morning was free of official engagements at the Field Marshal's request. He interviewed a few ex-service men on various matters, and later with Lady Haig did a little personal shopping in the city, prior to an early luncheon at Government House.

BIG HARVEST TREK TO PRAIRIES WILL COMMENCE SOON

Labor Officials Prepare For Heavy Movement of Men to Grain Fields

Conference Called to Fix Low Fares For B.C. Men Traveling Eastward

Officials of the British Columbia Department of Labor here are preparing now for a big trek of harvesters to the prairies. The bumper grain crop promised for this Fall is expected to absorb many more men from this Province than last year when 5,380 harvesters were sent from here to the prairies. The movement to the grain fields will get under way about August 10.

Meanwhile arrangements are being made to give the harvesters low fares over the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. Officials of the two railway companies will confer on rate matters with representatives of the labor departments of all the Western provinces in Winnipeg on July 24, it was announced to-day. J. H. McVety will represent the British Columbia department under instructions issued by J. D. McNiven, Deputy Minister of Labor.

It is anticipated that the fares will be about the same as those in effect last year, $11 from Vancouver Island to Calgary and Edmonton, with an extra charge of half a cent a mile for all distances between those cities and points of destination.

NEW ANTI-BEER MOVE IN THE U.S.

Government Launching Campaign to Stop Sale of "High Power" Beverage

Washington, July 14—The Federal Government is preparing to launch a new campaign to stop the leakage of "high power" beer.

New regulations are being drawn looking to more drastic action against the brewers of the illicit commodity.

A system of intelligence by which the brewers may be kept under constant surveillance has been worked out, and the removal from such plants of "high power" beer, or any beer containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol by volume, will be cause for action by the prohibition agents.

The second important phase of the regulations is designed to compel speed in the offices of United States attorneys.

PANCHO VILLA DIED TO-DAY IN CALIFORNIA

Was Flyweight Champion of World; First Filipino to Reach Top

San Francisco, July 14—Pancho Villa, flyweight champion of the world, died to-day in a local hospital following an operation on his jaw.

Villa was rushed to the hospital from his hotel last night when the jaw infection took a serious turn. He was operated on at once but failed to rally from the effects of the operation. He died a few minutes after eleven.

Villa had been ill from the jaw affection since a few days before his fight with Jimmy McLarnin in Oakland on July 4. He went into that fight against the advice of his physician and lost after putting up a gruelling contest. He appeared tired throughout, and there was a swelling on the right side of his face that could be plainly seen by the ringsiders.

criminal libel against me," said Cowper.

"At the proper time and place I will show by evidence what was written was in the public interest," he explained, "and in the course of my duty as a journalist."

In extenuation of his conduct, he stated he had been the "subject of grossly unjust comment."

"Knowing your lordship will order whatever is just and in view of your lordship's wide experience, I place myself in your lordship's hands," said Cowper in conclusion.

The injunction restrains the defendants from publishing comments about an incident which is the basis of a charge for criminal libel against Cowper, namely, alleged occurrences in the Osler Avenue house prior to Janet Smith's death as narrated by Barbara Orford.

Should the defendants disobey the injunction the procedure then open to plaintiffs would be to apply in Supreme Court for an order committing them to jail for contempt of court.

M. M. Mahoney Speaks in U.S. For Canada

London, July 14.—Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, stated in the House of Commons yesterday that a representative of the Canadian Department of External Affairs had been accommodated with an office at the British Embassy in Washington for some time past. The Canadian representative was not attached to the staff of the British Ambassador and had no official status, Mr. Chamberlain said.

Ottawa, July 14.—The Department of External Affairs states the official of the department referred to by the British Foreign Secretary is M. M. Mahoney, who was formerly on the staff of the Canadian War Mission in Washington during the war under Sir Charles Gordon, and subsequently under Lloyd Harris. Since 1920, Mr. Mahoney has been acting as agent for the Canadian Government in the United States capital, pending a decision as to the appointment of a Canadian representative at Washington.

VICTORIA SCOTS CONFER DEGREE ON FIELD MARSHAL

Made Imperial Grand Knight of Knights and Dames of Thistle

Knights and Dames of the Thistle at an interesting ceremony yesterday invested Field Marshal Earl Haig with the degree of Imperial Grand Knight. The investiture was made by Senior Officer Peter Drybrough, who in doing so said:

"As Knight of the Grand Chair my life's greatest pleasure arises at this moment, in conferring upon you, this Imperial order.

"Conversant with your aim and object in the formation of the British legion, permit me to say that we have many old campaigners in our order and many who had the honor to serve under your distinguished command of the Great War. The K.O.T.T., emblematic of our order, stands for knowledge, objective, tenacity and triumph, so that, my lord, it fits in well with your great mission, in that, apart from the K.O.T.T. just explained, our order calls for unity.

"It would appear, and we are sanguine, that with your knoweldge as a leader you will attain your objective by your tenacity and assuredly triumph. The ex-service men in our order are all more or less members of some ex-service organization, broad-minded and working harmoniously, whilst the dames, whether they be mothers, wives or daughters, have all sacrificed something for peace and unity.

"This gavel, emblematic of authority, is used in the following manner: One rap, two raps, three raps, and as you are now installed as Imperial Grand Knight, I take great pleasure in surrendering my command in your favor.

"In conclusion, worthy sir, I urge you to step for a second into your high station with us and grace our charter with your autograph. It would afford us great pleasure to have you go through the workings of this order, but on account of the many claims upon we are compelled to forego initiation, obligation and lecture ceremonies."

AN ADDRESS

Alex McCloy presented the following address to "our esteemed countryman, Earl Haig":

"In condescending to grace our humble, yet noble order, you are conferring an honor, a great honor, upon those who, hailing from the land of heath, heather and thistle, are proud of their country, proud of the great men it has produced, among whom we are especially proud to proclaim, yourself.

"Those whom you are now among, whilst their respective stations in life are not of the highest, nevertheless their aims, objects and ideals rank high indeed, and we desire personally to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to you in gratifying one of our cherished ideals, namely, having you yourself among us in our fraternal order.

"One of the aims of this order is to uplift, an aim which you, by gracing our circle, have done more in a short space of time to bring about than many years of hard work in our own way would accomplish.

"Your presence here will be a further incentive to us in our objective, that of keeping ever fresh in the memories of Scottish people and their offsprings, the customs, the ideal and the traditions of the Scottish race, which by the way was never conquered. We crave and solicit the benefit of your great experience, your fraternal thoughts, and when possible, your guidance, for it is our determination not only to grow in Victoria, but foster the organization throughout the Dominion.

"In conclusion, Your Lordship, let me add on behalf of our order, the combined regrets that time, etc., will not permit of our extending a warmer welcome, in keeping not only with our traditions but compatibly with the high rank you have attained in life.

"Understanding your democratic nature, however, we fear little, and feel that our small mark of esteem, without pomp and show, may appeal to your nature. With your gracious consent, permit us to confer upon you the highest rank we can bestow, namely, that of Imperial Grand Knight, and may you ever cherish the memory, the work and the ideals of the order, the K and D.O.T.T."

Earl Haig suitably acknowledged the tribute.

Knights Reston and J. G. Brown were the knights of ceremony. The arrangements were made by Knight of Publicity C. G. MacBride.

EARLY CHINA CONFERENCE URGED IN U.S.

Martel, but they appear to share the French Ambassador's view that it is useless to press for the opening of the conferences while the jurisdiction conflict is unsolved. On the other hand, the Chinese appear to be reluctant to undertake the negotiations while it is uncertain the diplomats will be able to enforce the possible decisions.

CHINESE POSITION

Furthermore there are no indications the Chinese have receded from their position that there can be no settlement of the Shanghai riot shootings exclusive of questions concerning the contributory conditions.

Leakage of parts of the report of the investigators sent to Shanghai has raised the question in diplomatic circles whether it would not be wise to publish the entire report.

HISTORY MUST PLACE HAIG AMONG IMMORTALS, SAYS LORD BIRKENHEAD

In a recent article whose partiality for its subject is imperceptible in the balance in which it is weighed, Lord Birkenhead adjudicates that history will have to place among its Immortals the Earl Haig of Bemersyde. The force of the conviction gains momentum acceleratingly with the increasing lapse of time that permits recalling ten years ago. Then, and for three succeeding years, all that the English-speaking world of the Allies learned officially of the Great War was revealed through terse statements appearing daily as communiques. These utterances were so cryptic as to impinge on the obtuse, but were not less opaque in the revelation of the individuality of their author, Sir Douglas Haig, commander-in-chief of the British forces in France and Flanders. Who was he who was inditing these momentous epistles? He was quite unknown to the world at large; some feigned to perceive in the name he bore that of a family by tradition entitled to achieve valerously, but literally thousands of other British family names might have been equally expectant. What had he done that to him should be intrusted a command so supreme? None knew, outside a limited number in strictly military circles.

CRUSHING RESPONSIBILITY

The antecedents of General Haig when he took over his first command in France could be searched, and all that could be found was the bald, impersonal relation of the professional career of a gentleman who had succeeded. With the First Army Corps in France during the fated August he was reported to have done magnificently; but even that command far exceeded any he had ever held. What would he do with the British army? This was the enigma. A crushing responsibility that will become classic in history had been placed upon a handsome man who cultivated an immaculate appearance, and would be as little liable to blow his own trumpet as to disgrace his regiment by mounting his horse on the off side. The un-starred actor had been cast in the role that called for the player who was both hero and favorite of his empire audience; but Haig was neither. Instead of being a hero, he was a horse soldier; instead of being any meretricious "darling of the gods," he was remote, as unsusceptible to applause as imperturbable to jeers. He might have to be the tragedian; he could not be emotional. Certain of his part, he faltered not in the plot he had to unfold. The good soldier was the imperfect actor; he could not mimic, play up to the part, and would not. In this, the staging of the greatest drama in history was unfinished, inartistic, unbecoming its grandeurs. The actor without appeal was given the part that was unrivalled. The selection in any other country would have been histrionically extolled. It was made by the British with characteristic disregard for the stage trappings.

"LUCKY HAIG"

To understand how, without really hoping to know why, this soldier has risen to historic eminence, you have to dig down for that which he would never reveal; for no man in public life has paraded himself less or been more reticent about his talent. He is of the kind that abhors publicity; for if duty of late years had demanded that he submit to it, he has never courted it. He has been known as "Lucky Haig," but was only a captain at an age when many men in the army are thinking of sending in their papers. His luck was the sort that is spelled with hard work. Nobody would be willing to give a man no notably good-looking the credit of possessing brain; yet he gave evidence of being far above the ordinary from the day he quit Oxford to pass through Sandhurst, where the authorities declared he was head and ears above any other cadet. Long years spent as regimental officer, which to most men in the messes are years of weariness and petty garrison frictions and jealousies, he made use of in a way that inured him to the care of men and let him acquire a mastery of cavalry technique. Sir John French knew this, and claimed him as chief of his staff during the Boer War. His experience in the exploits of that campaign, in which British cavalry operated on a plane broader than any it had formerly moved on, launched him as a soldier marked for promotion. The captain rose in eight years to major-general. He went to India, where he was inspector of cavalry, and was dubbed "Lucky Haig" by that tongue tipped with venom which is the most vocal organ in the military and other services. As the big dog jogged down the street the little dogs could not resist barking and yelping inside their own garden gates. Haig—so confoundedly young, as a major-general that is; so uncommonly good-looking—outraged choleric currie-munching generals in India by urging their cavalry to gallop as cavalry in India never before had had to gallop. This as completely upset the messes as it thoroughly reorganized the Indian cavalry. Brigadiers and colonels with tea and dinner appointments danced with their rage; he might be the youngest major-general in the British army, but why need he be so infernally arduous over his dashed, dot, blanketty new-fangled ideas? When Haig had made the Indian cavalry so good he took all the comfort out of it, he was promoted chief of staff in India. That tore it. Every tarnished brass hat swelteringly swore it was only on account of his good looks; but ladies from Simla in the hills to Delhi on the plains wouldn't agree; they held that a Lancer so handsome must have brains to escape matrimony till he was forty-four years of age. Nobody thought of tracing Haig's luck to another phase which appeared in the years in which he was coming to the front in the army. It will be recalled as the period largely instituted when Kitchener was in his prime. The army was being taken over from gouty satraps who didn't believe it should prepare for anything but peace. It was passing into the hands of younger fellows, men who were little more than lieutenants in their own regiments "at home" but seconded to command brigades and even divisions abroad. Haig was moving up in line with a hundred others to whom were being given army jobs that needed doing badly, dashed badly; and his job was training soldiers. To do that he was brought home to England, and when the war broke he was training the Old Contemptibles in his command at Aldershot.

A WHIRLWIND MARRIAGE

That time he was recalled to England was not the first visit paid his home during his tour of duty in India. He returned on a leave that can be referred to here because it was exactly twenty years ago this month, and affords a pardonable excuse for offering Lord and Lady Haig Canadian felicitations upon this anniversary of their wedding, with which may be coupled good wishes for the long continuance of a joint life of greater ease and as much happiness. The story goes with all allusions to Haig's Luck, but is repeated here to illustrate his tactical dash. The charming lady had been a maid of honor to two British queens when Sir Douglas Haig met her that leave at Ascot one Monday. As he was engaged on the Saturday, he put up the banns on Sunday, and was married and on his way back with his bride to India three weeks later.

TRAINING HIS FETISH

If there be one distinguishing trait in this soldier more marked than his self-effacing instinct of modesty and good breeding, it has been his inviolate faith in training men. The untrained soldier cannot be up to his work; the army that has been untrained is unreliable, ineffective. That faith is his fetish. It was the fundamental theme in his philosophic conception of how the war would be won. To him, as he has said in dispatches, it was a single conflict, great, extended, terrible, hideous, but still one continuous effort. To regard it as otherwise he refused with a resolution that had to be dogged to withstand the pressure and the imprecations put and poured upon him as commander-in-chief. The final victory that had to be his if the Allies were to win, could only be wrought with the perfected instrument, which would be the trained army composed of trained soldiers. Schools to teach every conceivable trick and art of the warfare being waged were set up in every back area in France. The finest units were pulled out of the line to be trained to higher pitches of perfection. One was the Canadian Corps. General Haig ordered it into training in the May of 1918, and when it was the perfected machine of flexible, flawless steel, it was set to the task of the last phases of the long conflict Haig had been fighting.

THE SIMPLE SOLDIER

Nothing is apt to be more indelicately glib than the pen that writes about the soldier who has risen to the topmost pinnacle. The inclination is for unbridled admiration, giving offence, particularly to the subject himself. Such an indiscretion in bad taste is precluded by something inherent in the natural restraint, the manly effacement, the direct and even plain character with which Earl Haig is invested. He has been commended; he has been criticized; and likely both have been permissible, if each has not always been deserved. He has risen to great rank, but is still very much the simple soldier, and would be first to point out that when he was given the high command he was only one of several of his compeers who might have been promoted. It is well, then, not to indulge in pyrotechnics, and more profitable to find in the words of an authority an estimate of the British commander-in-chief in the Great War. This is given by John Buchan, in his history of the war, which has the added value of being relieved by personal knowledge of men who played leading roles in that world drama. Buchan refers to Marshal Foch, who had taken over the Allied command. "If we seek for the first lieutenant of Foch," says Buchan, "the choice must fall upon Haig. He more than any other man made the final conception of Foch possible. He had not the Frenchman's gift for strategy, but he had the scarcely less valuable power of creating weapons for the strategist to use. He was a master in the art of training troops, the greatest Britain has had since Sir John Moore, and under his guidance the British army produced most of the main technical developments of the campaign. He had his failures, as Foch had, but no failures or disappointments could shake his confidence in the ultimate issue. Drawing comfort from deep springs, he bore in the face of difficulties a gentle and unshakable resolution. The campaign—nay, the history of war, has produced no finer figure: great in patience, courtesy, unselfishness, serenity, and iron courage amid reverses and delays. He showed high military talent, but he showed a character which was beyond talent, and, since war in the last resort is a conflict of spirit, the finer spirit prevailed. Britain was fortunate indeed in the leader to whom she entrusted her manhood; and of all her leaders he was the most sorely tested and abundantly proved."—Manitoba Free Press.

SHANGHAI TROUBLES

Tokio, July 14.—Foreign Minister Shidehara to-day said Japan would not oppose the London conference on China proposed by diplomats at Peking for the settlement of the Shanghai situation, which started the anti-foreign troubles.

The Foreign Minister added, however, that he believed the proposed conference would be unnecessary because settlement of the difficulties with the Chinese Government had been partially effected by negotiations under way at present.

Denial was made by the Minister of a reported United States Anglo-Japanese secret agreement regarding China. The Foreign Minister also denied a separate Anglo-Japanese understanding was in existence.

Foreign Secretary Chamberlain told the House of Commons in London yesterday the number of Chinese killed in Canton June 23, when British and French marines fired on native demonstrators, was not accurately known. He said reports indicated thirty Chinese had been killed an seventy wounded, but he added the figures might be larger.

Only one foreigner, J. Pasquier, a French merchant, was killed, he said. Four British subjects and one Frenchman were wounded.

SCOPES MEN OBJECTED TO COURT PRAYER

"I have every respect for what Mr. Darrow believes and does not believe," said the New York attorney, "and I wish to offer an objection as a member of defence counsel who is not an agnostic.

"We have talked things over in our chambers and believe the opening of the court with prayer each morning is prejudicial to the interests of the defendant. Most of the opening prayers offered by ministers so far have been largely argumentative.

SAYS HARM DONE

"We hold this practice creates a religious atmosphere here which is harmful to our cause.

"Will the court say if this has been the practice here without exception?"

Attorney-General Stewart rose to say:

"This is a God-fearing community and we are accustomed to pray around here. It is the usual thing in this part of the country."

"And I would have you know," Mr. Malone broke in vehemently, "that they are just as God-fearing where I come from as they are anywhere."

"I hope that is true," said Mr. Stewart.

"It is," said Mr. Malone.

"I am glad to know it," replied Mr. Stewart.

JUDGE DECIDED

Judge Rauiston broke in to say the court did not want to be unreasonable about anything, "but I am responsible for the conduct of the court," he said. "I overrule this objection."

The Rev. A. C. Stribling, pastor of the Dayton Cumberland Presbyterian Church, offered the prayer after Mr. Darrow had entered an exception.

The formal opening of the court followed.

LIGHTS WENT OUT

Judge Rauiston announced he would have to ask indulgence in announcing his decision on the motion to quash the indictment. A matter of several hours, he said, might be needed for him to get his opinion in shape, lack of lights in Dayton last night having interfered with his work.

Court then recessed.

Mr. Darrow had said when he came into court this morning that after going over his notes on yesterday's address he had decided he had made his position plain and would not continue to-day.

DISCOVERY OF CANCER GERM GIVES HOPES OF CURE

to entertain false hopes from the results as now published. Unhappily, nothing of the kind could be encouraged, and he reminded his interviewers that no cure for tuberculosis had yet been found, although its cause had been discovered many years ago.

WORK SECRETLY

Dr. Gye, who was also seen by the newspapermen, paid a warm tribute to Dr. Barnard's skill and accomplishments. Their work, he said, has been conducted amid compete secrecy under the aegis of the Medical Research Council, which is supplied with money by the Government for scientific investigation.

PIONEER WORK

New York, July 14—Greatly interested in dispatches from London that British scientists had isolated the cancer germ, leading cancer specialists in New York stated the British discovery was based on research work done in the United States.

They said that the present development was the culmination of the discovery by Dr. Peyton Rous of the Rockerfeller Institute for Medical Research, New York City, that tumors in chickens were not organic, as previously believed, but were caused by an ultra-microscopic organism too small to be seen through the ordinary microscope.

That this tiny germ had at last been observed and isolated, it was added, was the result of work done by Dr. Rous and Dr. Hideyo Noguchi, also of the Rockefeller Institute, in developing an apparatus known as the ultra-microscope and in perfecting methods of cancer research.

PANCHO VILLA DIED TO-DAY IN CALIFORNIA

COURAGEOUS DECISION

During the fight his manager, Frank Churchill, issued a statement saying Villa had been told not to fight but was determined to do so to save the promoter a big loss.

On the night before the fight Villa had a wisdom tooth extracted by a surgeon to relieve a stiffening of the jaw, and was reported to have gone into the ring with the jaw nerves deadened by a drug to kill the pain.

Later it was necessary to extract other teeth, but the infection spread and a major operation was then decided on.

Villa was discovered in the Philippines by Churchill in 1919, while Churchill was acting as a government official there. The United States manager built the little islander up to championship class and when his conquest of the islands was complete, brought him to the United States in 1922.

DEFEATED BUFF

One of his first opponents in the United States was Johnny Buff, then holder of the United States flyweight title. Villa knocked Buff out in eleven rounds after a sensational showing. Later he lost his title to Frankie Genaro, but in 1923 he took on Jimmy Wilde, the British fighter, who held the world title, and beat Wilde in workmanlike fashion.

A return match between Villa and Genaro for the world title was in the making, the bout being planned for New York in the Fall.

Recently Villa made a campaign in the Philippines, beating all comers. He returned to the Pacific Coast about a month ago and after a brief stay in the Northwest came to Oakland to take on McLarnin. In the McLarnin battle Pancho showed but a flash of his old speed and his manager announced his workouts for some time back had been most unimpressive. For two nights before the fight he did not sleep, his manager said, and the jaw infection had become so advanced that muscles had set and could be relieved only by a surgeon.

Villa's wife gave birth to a son in Manila a few days ago.

Villa was the first Filipino ever to hold a world boxing title.

He was to have met Vic Foley, Canadian champion, in Vancouver, B.C., next Friday.

McGEER ADDRESSED WESTERN MAYORS

Pointed Out Railway Rate Discriminations to Gathering in Edmonton

Urged Creation of Western Sentiment, United in Its Demands

Edmonton, July 14—This morning's session of the conference of Western mayors and other civic officials was featured by an able and exhaustive address on the Western freight rate question by G. G. McGeer, K.C. Among those in attendance were D. C. Coleman, vice-president in charge of western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway; Premier Greenfield of Alberta, Senator Griesbach, D. W. Warner, M.P., and other prominent local men.

Mr. McGeer went at length into the matter of the discrimination in rail rates against Western Canada and asserted the reason was that the railways and financial institutions of Canada were largely controlled by men whose sympathy and knowledge was not concerned with the West. It was by building up a strong Western sentiment, united in its demands, that this could be met, he asserted, and it was along this line that the present conference might attain its greatest result.

SUGAR SITUATION

As a specific example of the discrimination in rail rates he instanced the case of sugar, which was brought from the East over great mileage at lower rates than it could be carried to Alberta from Vancouver. The direct result was than Vancouver could not get into the Winnipeg market, which was controlled by the Halifax refineries.

"If that is a fair and impartial basis of justice it is something new," said Mr. McGeer, who declared the time had come when such conditions would not be acceptable either to the people of the East or the people of the West.

COLEMAN SPOKE

Later in the session Mr. Coleman spoke briefly in reference to Mr. McGeer's address. The latter, he said, had marshalled all his arguments with the skill of the able advocate, but Mr. Coleman pointed out the resolution passed at the recent session of Parliament gave power to the Railway Commission fully to investigate the question of rail rates and make rulings. In view of this he thought it was unwise to attempt to prejudice the situation before hand.

LIVE FOXES TO BE SHOWN AT FALL FAIR

Will Arouse Interest of Many Vancouver Island Breeders

Industry is One of Importance to British Columbia

The phenomenal growth of fox farming on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands will cause particular interest to centre in the exhibition of live foxes at the Provincial Fall Fair at the Willows next month. Secretary W. H. Mearns announces this morning that the Canadian Blue Fox Farms Limited will have an attractive display near the automobile building.

A company was formed some time ago for the purpose of breeding, raising and selling Blue Foxes and also pelts. They own Reynard Island, which used to be known as Mink Island, lying on the coast of British Columbia about 100 miles North of Vancouver in Desolation Sound. The island comprises 735 acres and is ideal for this industry. The company own and ranch 126 pairs of "A' grade dark blue foxes together with this year's increase.

WONDERFUL INDUSTRY

The company has had extensive experience in the raising of these animals, and for some years have been working in a scientific manner, which has improved the breeding stock, and has proven this wonderful industry which will play such a leading part in the future of the Province of British Columbia.

The blue fox is a native of the southeastern islands of Alaska, and has been successfully bred there since 1881. The coast of British Columbia being served by the Japanese current, has practically the same climate as the southeastern islands of Alaska, and is therefore the home of the blue fox.

The Canadian blue fox farms have found through their experience that the best way to get the largest results is to handle the blue fox as he lived naturally. Nature in its mysterious way provides the natural herbs to keep the animals in best condition, provides the natural dens in which the vixen brings up her young since time immortal, and in allowing the blue fox to continue along these lines the company have reaped large profits with practically no loss. They, therefore, recommend the farming of blue foxes either on islands or in large compounds, both methods allowing the animals the free natural range, his natural denning conditions and the natural medical herbs.

The foxes are fed scientifically on a diet which has proven to produce large animals with dark, heavy glossy pelts.

Ratepayers Favor Extra Assessments For School Nurse

Special to The Times

Colwood, July 14.—Annual school meetings were held throughout the Metchosin district on Saturday night last, with the exception of Albert Head, where the meeting was postponed until to-night (Monday).

METCHOSIN

W. Arden, retiring trustee, was returned to office for another term of three years. Mr. Arden was contested by Mrs. A. D. Ellwood, and was returned on a vote of twenty-three to sixteen. The board, therefore, is composed of the same as last year, viz.: J. W. Milne, W. Arden and Mrs. Gavin F. Weir, secretary.

The teacher, Miss Bertrand, will return to the school to take up her duties again, having been considered very satisfactory by the board.

LUXTON AND HAPPY VALLEY

A. Hankin was returned as trustee at the Luxton and Happy Valley meeting. Mr. Hankin, J. Higham and Mrs. E. Dallimore, secretary, comprise the board.

The assessment voted by the ratepayers included the partial payment of the salary of the public health nurse of the district as school nurse.

COLWOOD

Mrs. S. Goucher was elected by the ratepayers of the Colwood district to fill the vacancy left by the retiring trustee, whose term of three years expired. G. W. Ilott and Mrs. H. Parker, secretary, comprise the Colwood board. At Colwood also the ratepayers voted in favor of the extra assessment for the services of a school nurse. Also at Langford the vote was in favor. With Albert Head and Goldstream (whose report has not yet been received) practically assured, the health district remains the same as last year, with the five last named school districts comprising same.

ANNUAL MEETING OF LANGFORD SCHOOL

Special to The Times

Langford, July 14. — The annual meeting was held this evening in the junior room of Langford school, with a good attendance of ratepayers. H. Pierce, trustee, was elected chairman; the secretary, Mrs. P. Welsh, read the minutes of the previous year and presented the financial report.

Nominations for a trustee being called upon, W. T. Dixon, retiring trustee, was re-elected, and H. A. Hincks as auditor.

On the motion of H. A. Hincks a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the trustees, H. Pierce, Mrs. P. Welsh and W. T. Dixon, for their year's work.

The janitress was congratulated upon the cleanliness of the school, and the subject of electric light being installed was discussed, after which the meeting adjourned.

Sympathy is expressed to Mrs. A. F. Bayles on the illness of her father, Mr. Busby of London. Mrs. A. F. Bayles and son Rodney left for Vancouver last night en route for Montreal, sailing by the Ss. Doric.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Cooney and family are residing at Ocean Beach lagoon for the Summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Luney and the Misses Luney of Victoria are residing at their Summer bungalow, Happyholme on Leigh Road, Langford Lake.

Walter Kenneth B. Hincks has left for Courtenay to visit Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brown and sons, formerly of Langford.

Mr. Hector Goodacre of Victoria is spending the Summer months as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Luney, Leigh Road.

Mrs. Winnifred Whipps is visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Cooney at their Summer camp at Ocean Beach lagoon.

A bathing and picnic party was held on Thursday at the Langford Lake tea rooms in honor of the twelfth anniversary of Kenneth B. Hinck's birthday. The lake water was delightfully warm for the bathing, and diving sports enjoyed by the young folks. By kind permission of Mrs. E. C. Stewart tea was served on the spacious veranda, the beautiful view from it of the lake and mountains helped to stimulate the appetites of the visitors who did full justice to the sandwiches, cakes and ice cream provided.

Miss Marion Goucher and her sister Mrs. Leslie Peatt, are holidaying in Vancouver.

Colwood News

Special to The Times

Colwood, July 14—The report of the Esquimalt Rural Nursing Service for the month of June shows seven schools visited, twenty-five home school visits made, ninety-six school children inspected, five pre-natal visits, sixteen social service visits, six child welfare visits, two patients taken to hospital, five health club meetings held, four health addresses given, forty-seven nursing visits, including visits to Metropolitan Life Insurance policyholders.

Four visits have been made with children to the dentist in Victoria, as the fourth dental clinic held by the association is now in progress. One hundred and seventy children were recently examined by Dr. Youlden, dentist, in the schools in the health district, for defective teeth. It is estimated that by the time school reopens all children attending school in the health district requiring treatment will have received attention.

NO ANTI-CANADIAN PROPAGANDA SEEN

Sir Joseph Reed, Visiting This Country, Says no Campaign Exists in Britain

Winnipeg, July 14.—A denial that there was an anti-Canadian propaganda at present in Britain featured an interview obtained here last night from Sir Joseph Reed of Newcastle, England, former chairman of the Press Association of Great Britain, who passed through Winnipeg on his way to attend the third Imperial Press Conference to be held in Melbourne, Australia.

"In 1923," said Sir Joseph, "there certainly was such propaganda, but it was traced to the dissatisfied harvesters who had returned to Britain. That soon fizzled out and since then I have not encountered any serious move in that direction."

He expressed the opinion that such propaganda could not be held responsible for the failure of immigrants to come to Canada from Britain.

Asked about conditions in Britain, he said they were in a "bad way," with the coal dispute serious.

"The British worker," he said, "will never, as a rule, see reason until he is starving. At present the three political parties are engaged in playing to Labor, with the result that many sound schemes of a contributory nature by both employer and employee are ruined. The dole was such a scheme."

RECENT PLOT IN TOKIO AGAINST EMPEROR DENIED

Tokio, July 14.—The Foreign Office announced to-day that the alleged Korean plot against members of the imperial family reported in Japanese newspapers last week was discovered in 1923, not a fortnight ago.

The newspaper Kokumin stated on July 10 that four Koreans a fortnight ago gained entrance to the Imperial Palace with bombs, but the bombs had not exploded and no one was injured. The paper said the Koreans had been arrested. Other newspapers announced the forthcoming trial of unnamed persons charged with an offence against the imperial court.

DROWNED IN LAKE

Seattle, July 14—Mrs. Gladys Peterson, a bride of three months, was drowned in Lake Union yesterday while floating on the water with the aid of an inflated inner tube of an automobile tire. She had been seen only five minutes before the lone inner tube was noticed. She could not swim.

INVITATION TO MUSSOLINI

Rome, July 14—King Victor Emmanuel yesterday invited Premier Mussolini to be his guest at the San Rosso Palace and rest from the exactions of his office. This invitation is said to be without precedent.

Bagshaw, tendered his resignation, owing to his going to remove from the district in the near future. It was moved that the resignation be accepted with sincere regret, and that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Bagshaw for his very efficient work as president. This was carried unanimously, and all present took advantage of the opportunity to express their regret at losing such a good worker in the interests of the scouts.

ELECTION PROSPECTS

THE HOPELESSNESS OF Conservative prospects in a Dominion election this year should be apparent to the most superficial observer. For Mr. Meighen to be returned in sufficient strength to hold office he would have to obtain a clear majority of the 245 members who will compose the next House of Commons. For safety's sake he would need at least 127 supporters. He now has 50 in a House of 235. Where is he going to get the additional 77? He is barred completely from the three Prairie Provinces, the stronghold of the Progressives, where he has not a single seat now and where he will not get one in the next election. This takes 53 seats out of his prospect column.

His prospects in Quebec are scarcely any better. He has no representative from Quebec's 65 now and there are scarcely any seats in that province in which Conservatives who know the situation expect to have a fighting chance. The Nationalists who split Quebec in 1911 and brought about the return of Mr. Borden are no longer a factor. Mr. Meighen has no Henri Bourassa and Armand Lavergne to help him. In fact he has no supporter in Quebec strong enough to do him any good there. So he is barred from more than sixty seats in that Province. These with the 53 in the three Prairie Provinces make more than 113 seats which are definitely removed from the Tory column of prospects.

This means that Mr. Meighen would have to win virtually all the remaining seats; that is to say, 30 in the Maritime Provinces, 82 in Ontario and 15 in British Columbia and the Yukon. This, of course, is impossible. If the Tories took 70 out of 82 seats in Ontario, the entire 30 in the Maritime Provinces, the entire 15 in British Columbia and the Yukon and seven or eight in Quebec, even then they would not be able to command a majority in the House.

On the other hand, the Liberals do not need a majority to hold office. They have been able to rely upon Progressive support in critical divisions. If they emerged from the election as the largest of the three parties, but without a majority, they would be able to continue in office. The prospects are they will obtain a clear majority because, unlike the Tories, they have favorable prospects in the Prairies and are bound to gain some seats in Ontario. In any case, whatever may be the outcome as far as majorities are concerned, there is no prospect of success for Mr. Meighen and, moreover, there is not a Tory member at Ottawa who really believes there is.

CANCER

CABLE ADVICES FROM London intimate that the British National Institute of Medical Research has divorced and isolated the organism which causes cancer. It is anticipated that this notable achievement, which comes as the result of many years of assiduous research, will be followed by an exhaustive effort to use the new discovery in perfecting a treatment for this dread disease.

While the comments of The Lancet, the leading British medical journal, reflect a traditional conservativeness, it declares that the discovery marks an important event in the history of medicine. It also qualifies its observations with the statement that the experiments which have led up to the triumph now announced "contain no suggestion that a cure for cancer has been discovered." But it says quite plainly that "they point the way to further bio-chemical work" and strikingly reconcile much conflicting theory. With this admitted by The Lancet, it is obvious that the results, as far as the layman may understand them, have made more than the usual stir that follows the average announcement of medical achievement.

News of the discovery is all the more interesting by reason of the fact that one of the medicoes sharing the distinction, Dr. J. E. Barnard, is really an amateur who adopted microscopy as a hobby thirty years ago. The dispatch says that he became engrossed in it, the enthusiasm of a young and ardent man, but never allowed his persistent investigations through the microscope entirely to distract his attention from his business of making and selling high-class headgear. For he is a member of a well-known firm of Jermyn Street, London, hatters, and from his commercial calling he has provided himself with the funds essential for his pursuits in the realms of microscopy.

When he was interviewed at his hat shop yesterday Dr. Barnard, described as just as modest as his colleague Dr. Gye, treated the announcement, which he would have delayed, with less enthusiasm than was expected; but he explained this by giving very human reasons. He dreaded the effect it might have upon some sufferers from cancer who would probably take false hope and expect to get a cure at once. He could encourage no such thing and likewise informed his interviewer that although the cause of tuberculosis had been determined years ago, no cure had yet been found. The Barnard-Gye accomplishment is none the less progress towards effective war on a disease which has baffled science to date.

VETERANS IN ACCORD

IF THE ENTHUSIASM which marked the proceedings at the Royal Victoria Theatre last night conveyed anything to Field-Marshal Earl Haig, it must have suggested a keen desire on the part of the veterans of Victoria for a unification of the service bodies throughout the various parts of the Empire. The former army commander's message to his large audience was couched in the plainest of terms that neither ignored the difficulties which already have beset the path of the ex-service man in the past nor made extravagant promises for the future working of his scheme. On the other hand it was patent from his clear and simple presentation of the case for the British Empire Service League that Earl Haig intends thoroughness to direct the movement. It will presumably now rest with the various unified Dominion commands of the League to construct carefully their own internal machinery and be ever on the alert for disruptive elements. These are naturally more likely to creep into the larger body; but it should likewise be simple to detect them and eradicate them.

SMUTS ON THE PACT

ALTHOUGH GENERAL Smuts is no longer at the helm of the ship of state in South Africa, he still responds to appeals for his opinion on matters of important concern to his own and other countries of the British Empire. Nor is he less outspoken now than he was when he occupied the position of Prime Minister of the Union. His latest pronouncement is a reply to a request from The London Daily News for his view of Europe's new security pact. Here it is:

I confess I am profoundly suspicious not only of the pact, but also of the policies behind the pact. It is said that the pact contains no more than the covenant of the League of Nations. Then why not be satisfied with the covenant? But in truth there is more in the pact, or rather behind the pact. It will encourage the diehards of the peace settlement to stand more pat than ever. The peaceful reform of intolerable arrangements will, in fact, become impossible and Europe will be lured to destruction by a false sense of security and solidarity.

It is proposed under the pact that Great Britain shall dissociate herself from the Empire, and in the matter of cardinal foreign policy take a line of her own, leaving the other constituents of the Empire to decide their own policies. Under the circumstances I feel certain at at least some of them will not follow her.

As one who believes in the British Empire as the greatest human institution on earth, I can not acquiesce in this departure with equanimity. The pact may well become the turning point, a fatal parting of the ways in the Empire. British statesmen who adhere to the new holy alliance may yet find they have not only fatally dissociated their country from progressive forces in new Europe, but have cut the heart out of the Empire. Why not go forward to uncertain future hand in hand with the young nations of the Empire, rather than with the spectres of Europe?

There is in this Dominion a substantial body of public opinion which looks upon the pact with thorough disfavor; firstly because it is a reversion to the old principle of military alliances, arrangements ostensibly to prevent war, but which have invariably produced war in the past; secondly because it dislikes the idea of Great Britain ignoring what is undoubtedly a fine opportunity to develop the nations of the British family—still permitting her to foster peace in Europe—for new alignments in the most troubled part of the world.

HEALTH AND DISEASE

ANEURISM

An aneurism may be defined as a swelling containing either fluid or solid blood in direct communication with the lumen of an artery or the cavity of the heart.

An aneurism of an artery is therefore comparable to a blow-out in a rubber tire except that the process in the body is usually a gradual one—some years elapsing between the initial appearance of the swelling and its rupture.

Aneurisms occurring in the arteries near the surface of the body are easily diagnosed. The commonest of these is the aneurism of the popliteal artery which appears as a progressively enlarging lump at the back of the knee. Such superficial aneurisms are more easily treated than those occurring internally. Of the internal aneurisms the commonest is that occurring in the large main artery leaving the heart, the aorta. These are found in the abdominal as well as the thoracic portion of this blood vessel, although the latter are much more common.

A thoracic aneurism may grow to enormous size before it ruptures. Some of these tumors become as large as a man's head, and the pressure they exert in their slow growth frequently erodes away the bones with which they come in contact, thus they may push through the ribs to appear as pulsating tumors on the front of the chest, or they may erode the bones of the vertebral column.

This slow growth may be painless, but usually when there is a destruction of the bones there is considerable pain. Aneurisms commonly terminate by rupture—which causes almost instant death.

Aneurisms occasionally occur in the wall of the heart itself in which location they generally rupture before attaining any very great size. An aneurism always indicates some disease of the artery or heart wall, causing a local weakening with resulting out-pouching. The treatment is most satisfactory when started very early and then must be directed to the underlying disease condition that has weakened the vessel wall.

TWO DROWNED

Edmonton, July 14.—Word of two drownings was received here to-day. Michael Kiertsner, fifteen, visiting the Roman Catholic mission near Peace River, lost his life by falling over backwards into the Peace River on Saturday afternoon. Stanley Haduk, twenty-two, unable to swim, jumped into six feet of water in Myrtle Creek, near Waskatenau, yesterday. The body was recovered two hours later.

CITY LAND SALE

To the Editor—The above seems to be a very interesting subject just now. I remember a few years ago a contractor in this city was heavily fined in our Police Court for importing labor to carry out his work.

I, for one, would like to know the difference between this contractor and the City Council in employing Mr. Austin.

Maybe the City Solicitor could enlighten us on this.

ALIEN AUCTIONEERS

To the Editor:—Somebody once wrote that "Good wine needs no bush."

The idea that a lot will fetch more if sold by one particular auctioneer is the purest kind of humbug.

The city lots will fetch as much as a buyer thinks he can spend. If the taxes were less the lots would be capable of earning more for a purchaser and would fetch more.

Most purchasers will fix the amount they will bid before they come under the spell of the auctioneer, no matter who he may be.

The idea of charging the purchaser $10 is a way of reducing the values, as a purchaser will count that $10 as part of the price.

As the city has been taking the proceeds of my property for several years I have nothing to invest in these lots, no matter how cheap they may be.

It seems to be part of their policy to give no encouragement to local people.

I do hope it may be possible to stop the city from wasting the $15,000, as they propose. If the local men did the selling the bill would be less and the money retained.

THE SCOPES TRIAL

To the Editor:—In the now famous Scopes' trial William Jennings Bryan has remarked that "the contest between evolution and Christianity is a duel to the death." His meaning evidently is that as a consequence of this trial either Christianity or evolution will be defeated. Such may be the experience of Mr. Bryan. He may come out of the trial with no Christianity at all—and with only a smattering of evolution—hardly enough of the theory to help him out of his "hard shell" into the richer life of modern thinking.

The challenge as wrded by Mr. Bryan is rather difficult to discuss without a statement from him as to the nature of the Christianity that has become the antithesis of evolution. Evolution, as such, is a theory of development. In that theory are some incidentals that may or may not be proved; and if proved may or may not be palatable. If evolution—the unfolding of life—the developing of higher forms from the lower—is the Life of the Universe, of what sort is the Christianity which would be strengthened by this denial of God?

Since Mr. Bryan's Christianity must be a stranger to the "word made flesh," to say nothing of the monkey made man, and of the man by a "new birth" becoming "a new creature in Christ Jesus," by which the "old things are passed away; behold they are become new." If this correctly states the development of a higher form of being, then St. Paul also was an evolutionist, and according to Mr. Bryan's hypothesis could not have been a Christian.

I have hesitated to remark about other professed Christian scholars, and scholarly Christian gentlemen, being whole-hearted evolutionists according to the theory, lest the cheap remark would be made that they were infidel scholars, but when the division is likely to include even Jesus who "Beheld how the lily of the field grew," as well as St. Paul, then we may hope that the Christianity that will be dying was a misnomer anyway.

REVERTED LOTS AUCTION

To the Editor,—Alderman Robert Dewar and Mayor Pendray (I place Alderman Dewar first as he seems to be the stronger), betray a singular lack of perspetcive if they imagine for one single moment that the responsible citizens of this city will endorse the hyperbolical assertions they present to justify their action in diverting over $15,000 of the public money to alien beneficiaries.

They also demonstrate a most extraordinary lack of confidence in the people of their own city, its future and the abilities of its leading business men. But have a most exalted idea of their own.

The hypothetical statement made by Alderman Dewar: "That it is solely for the benefit of the citizens as a whole," that they are handing over from $15,000 to $20,000 to be taken out of Victoria, to be spent in a foreign country, exhibits a total absence of business acumen and is a gratuitous insult to the intelligence of the citizens—"as a whole."

Your paper reports Mayor Pendray as "supporting Alderman Dewar," and that he expressed his pleasure at being in such an entrenched position to be able to assist in deporting this huge sum of money, and to challenge criticism. Some people are most singularly pleased!

That expression only adds insult to injury, and does not improve his position one ioto.

The inflated, gaseous statement, made by Mayor Pendray, that Mr. Austin is being paid "an attractive commission," the spoils to be divided up amongst "his associate real estate firms who produce orders for properties," cannot be supported by the number of Oak Bay lots sold by Mr. Austin to American buyers "on orders produced" by his numerous and influential "associates."

The number of lots sold through this wonderful agency was—one!

This, mark you, after elaborate and lengthy advertising and representation according to Mr. Dewar.

So that, in this case, the only attraction was the "attractive commission."

I submit, sir, that if the $4,500 for advertising handed over to Messrs. Austin & Company had been placed in the hands of a reliable firm or firms of realty men of this city, and the money spent in the city amongst our own printers, and a judicious advertising campaign undertaken to bring this sale before the notice of Victorians, Vancouverites and B.C. generally, the publicity given to it would meet the eyes of the thousands of Americans already acquainted with the city, and who are now or will be here. This would have been a policy "solely for the benefit of the citizens as a whole," and would have provided profitable employment for some of our own people—from printers' devils to auctioneers, and kept the money at home.

Now Mr. Dewar endeavors to escape responsibility by pointing to a similar proposal made over four years ago—"before he was a member of the lands committee."

Then to another proposal made a year ago; but hastens to express his pleasure when he learned the Oak Bay lands committee had decided on Mr. Austin.

The wish was father to the thought! But it's all "piffle," and a ludicous attempt to "pass the buck!"

Evidently Mayor Pendray and Alderman Dewar became mesmerized from the moment they saw Mr. Austin's "ample proofs of his unusual qualifications." But who mesmerized the rest of the council?

HEAD OF LEGION TELLS OF UNION

Colonel F. F. Clarke, D.S.O., Gave Address to Local Returned Men Last Night

At a most enthusiastic meeting, held last night at the headquarters of the Canadian Legion, Col. F. F. Clarke, D.S.O., Grand Commandant of the Canadian Legion, gave an address on the proposed union of returned soldiers' clubs.

Col. Clarke is resigning his post as head of the Dominion Canadian Legion in favor of Lieutenant-General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., with the idea of hastening the proposed union.

The speaker in his brief address told the history of the returned soldier club movement in Canada. He described the manner in which discord crept into the relations between returned men and how controversies kept them apart. He explained how the Canadian Legion had been organized with the intention of bringing all the returned men into a single order.

He told of the conference at Ottawa several weeks ago, which was attended by fifteen delegates representing every chartered organization of returned men in Canada. These men had returned to the different organizations, he said, to make a report on the advisability of amalgamation.

At another conference to be held some time after September all the organizations would be requested to send two delegates to thoroughly discuss the question of a union.

TORONTO MAN RETURNS AFTER VISIT TO RUSSIA

Ottawa, July 14.—The Ottawa Citizen publishes the following:

Moriarity of Toronto, editor of The Worker, the Communist Party organ in Canada, who has just returned after several months spent in Russia, in which he traveled extensively.

"Living conditions in Russia are fairly good, although there is a house shortage owing to extensive immigration, especially in Moscow, but electricity is spreading rapidly all over the country, he says.

"'The stories as to religious persecution are mostly fiction, as the churches are open and everybody is at liberty to attend them,' he said. 'The Soviet Government, however, has ruled that those who desire the churches must support them.'"

Uncle Wiggily and the Dishes

Copyright, 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis)

Uncle Wiggily was about to hop out of his hollow stump bungalow one evening to go and play a game of Scotch checkers with Uncle Butter the goat, when, all of a sudden the rabbit gentleman heard a noise in his kitchen.

"It's your turn to wash the dishes!" exclaimed a voice which was that of Jangle, one of the little rabbit girls.

"It isn't at all—so there—it's your turn!" answered her sister Jingle.

The bad Bob Cat stuck in his head.

"I'm going out and play catch lightning bugs!"

"You've got to wash the dishes!" declared Jangle. "Mother told you to, before she and Nurse Jane went to the movies."

"Well, I'm not going to get my paws all soap and water by washing dirty dishes!" cried Jingle, "and I don't care if you tell Daddycums Uncle Wiggily—so there!"

But Uncle Wiggily didn't wait to be told. Out into the kitchen he hopped and there he saw the two little bunny girls, and the pink nose of each one was quite red—a most unpleasant red.

"Jingle," said Uncle Wiggily, speaking sort of stern like and not at all as a Christmas present, "you go sit in that chair!" and he pointed to one at the side of the door.

"Are you—are you going to punish us for not washing the dishes?" asked Jangle, as her sister shuffled her feet toward the chair.

"Yes," answered the bunny gentleman, "I am. You sit in that other chair, Jangle," and he pointed to one beside where Jingle was sitting.

Then the bunny gentleman took off his coat, and as he rolled up his sleeves he looked first at Jingle and then at Jangle.

"Are you—are you going to begin on—now—on me first?" whispered Jingle.

"Or on me?" faltered Jangle.

"I'm going to begin to punish both of you at the same time," said the rabbit gentleman slowly, as he finished rolling up his sleeves. Then he took the cake of soap in one paw, and a dish mop in the other. He turned on the hot water and then—well, then he began to wash the dishes!

"Oh!" gasped Jingle as she saw Mr. Longears sozzling the cups, plates and saucers around in the pan.

"Oh! Oh!" gasped Jangle. "I—I thought you said, Daddycums, that you were going to punish us for not washing the dishes?"

"I am," said Uncle Wiggily, humming a little tune as he washed the cups. "I am going to punish you, for it is right that you should be punished for not doing as you promised. And I heard you, Jingle, promise your mother to wash the dishes, while Jangle promised to dry them."

"Oh—all right—I'll wash the dishes!" quickly said Jingle. She moved to get off her chair, but Uncle Wiggily cried: "Sit there." And Jangle said she would dry the dishes, but the bunny gentleman told her to remain where she was.

All the while he kept on washing the dishes, and he had put nearly all of them through the hot, soapy water when, all of a sudden, the door of the bungalow was pushed open and the bad Bob Cat stuck in his head.

"Oh! Oh!" cried Jingle and Jangle. "Did you send for the Bob Cat to punish us by nibbling our ears? Did you send for him Daddycums."

"No, I didn't send for the Bob Cat to punish you and I don't want him here, either!" cried the bunny gentleman. "Get out, you bad chap!" he cried, and he splashed a lot of hot, soapy water in the eyes of the Bob Cat, making him howl.

"Yow yippie!" growled the bad chap, as he ran away trying to tuck his silly little tail between his legs.

Then Uncle Wiggily laughed and finished washing the dishes, but when Jingle and Jangle wanted to dry them he said:

"No, you must stay sitting in your chairs until I have finished the very last dish."

"And then will you punish us?" asked Jingle, trying to cry.

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily, "then I will punish you." When the last dish was dried and put away, Jangle asked:

"How—how are you going to punish us, Daddycums," and there were tears in her eyes.

"I am going to punish you by taking you to the movies with me," said Uncle Wiggily. And he did. And the next night, when it was Nurse Jane's turn to do the dishes, Jingle and Jangle made her sit out on the porch while they washed and dried everything. And if the rubber doll doesn't bounce up and bump the head of cabbage on its nose, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the peppermint.

WORKING GIRL'S EXPERIENCE

Read how She Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Arnprior, Ontario.—"I must write and tell you my experience with your medicine. I was working at the factory for three years and became so run-down that I used to take weak spells and would be at home at least one day each week. I was treated by the doctors for anemia, but it didn't seem to do me any good. I was told to take a rest, but was unable to, and kept on getting worse. I was troubled mostly with my periods. I would sometimes pass three months, and when it came it would last around two weeks, and I would have such pains at times in my right side that I could hardly walk. I am only 19 years of age and weigh 118 pounds now, and before taking the Vegetable Compound I was only 108 pounds. I was sickly for two years and some of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken a bottle of it I felt a change. My mother has been taking it for a different ailment and has found it very satisfactory. I am willing to tell friends about the medicine and to answer letters asking about it."—Miss Hazel Berndt, Box 700, Arnprior, Ontario.

A day out each week shows in the pay envelope. If you are troubled with some weakness, indicated by a run-down condition, tired feelings, pains and irregularity, let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound help you.

SIX MEN SCALED LOFTY MOUNT LOGAN

Canada's Highest Peak at Last Conquered, Says Message From North

Cordova, Alaska, July 14.—Having successfully reached the summit of Mount Logan, a hitherto unscaled peak in the Yukon Territory, a party of six adventurers, headed by Captain A. H. McCarthy of Windermere, B.C., returned safely to civilization, a telegram from McCarthy, Alaska, reported last night.

Mount Logan is the highest peak in Canadian territory, towering 19,850 feet above sea level.

Forced by frozen feet to descend after he had climbed to an elevation of more than 19,000 feet, Robert M. Morgan of Philadelphia, a member of the Mount Logan scaling expedition, is in Cordova recovering from the effects of his injuries. He is to sail for Seattle to-day.

The expedition, which consisted of eight members, headed by Capt. A. H. McCarthy, left Cordova May 8.

Henry Hall Jr. of Boston, who accompanied Morgan as far as Chitina on the return trip, went to Fairbanks. Hall and Morgan left the other members of the expedition, June 20, a comparatively short distance from the summit.

The six remaining members of the expedition were in good condition and the party had suffered no accidents. A blizzard was raging when Hall and Morgan left the party, with a low temperature prevailing and snow falling so thick they could not see more than a hundred feet.

Bad weather followed them on the entire trip to civilization, which was 150 miles on foot over virgin territory.

To Hold Installation—On Tuesday evening Mrs. W. D. Todd, District Deputy President and suite of deputy grand officers will instal the officers of Colfax Lodge No. 1 for the ensuing term. The installation ceremonies will be followed by a banquet.

MME. CAILLAUX IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Wife of French Minister Undergoes Operation After Auto Smash

Angers, France, July 14.—Mme. Caillaux, wife of the finance minister, who became something of a popular heroine in France in 1914, after she had shot and killed Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro to "clear her husband's name," was severely injured yesterday in an automobile accident. She was thrown from her car, when it crashed into a tree.

Mme. Caillaux was on her way to learn if her husband had been victorious in yesterday's by-election for a seat in the Senate for the department of the Sarthe. She was taken to a hospital at Angers for an operation, and her first words when she emerged from the anaesthetic were: "Was Joseph elected?" Mme. Caillaux was driving with a friend, Mme. Maillard, from a seaside resort to Angers.

The latest bulletin issued at the hospital says that although her condition is serious, she is not considered to be in danger. Word was dispatched to M. Caillaux, and he replied that he would start for Angers immediately.

Pretty Wedding At Ladysmith

Special to The Times

Ladysmith, July 14.—Last week an unusually pretty wedding was solemnized at Ladysmith Presbyterian Church when Rev. Wm. Graham united in marriage Simpson Wallace, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Bauld, and John, eldest son of Mrs. Sharp and the late Mr. Sharpe. The bride looked beautiful as she entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Griffin. Her gown was of white georgette crepe embroidered with steel beads, over which hung her wedding veil prettily arranged with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and gypsophila. She was preceded by Miss Ella Bauld, the bridesmaid, in a gown of crepe satin of ashes of roses with a picture hat to match and carrying a bouquet of old gold roses and gypsophila. Miss Janet McGarrigle of Seattle, daintily dressed in pink and white, acted as flower girl and carried a basket of sweet peas. Mr. W. Richards of Extension supported the groom and the ushers were Messrs. H. and W. Auchinvole of Union Bay.

The church presented an artistic setting for the wedding, having been decorated by the girl friends of the bride with Shasta daisies, roses, sweet peas and ivy. During the signing of the register Miss Jean Greenhorn sang "I Love You Truly." Later a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Fourth Avenue. A buffet luncheon was served, tea was poured by Mrs. A. Auchinvole and Mrs. W. Rolston, and the ices cut by Mrs. W. McGarrigle. Mr. and Mrs. Sharp left on the afternoon train for a honeymoon tour of the Sound cities. The bride traveled in an ensemble suit of dark fawn poiret twill with a picture hat in almond green. On their return they will reside on the Esplanade.

St. George's Fete — Mrs. W. C. Nichol will formally open the garden fete which the Royal Society of St. George will hold to-morrow afternoon in the grounds of The Precincts. Various stalls are being arranged by the ladies, including a home cooking, ice cream and candy stall. The pupils of Mrs. B. G. Ruddock will give dances during the afternoon, and W. A. Farmer will have charge of a Punch and Judy show for the entertainment of children. Afternoon tea will be served up until the evening, to take care of business people. It is expected the Moose Band will be in attendance.

LADY HAIG VISITS HOSPITAL AND RED CROSS WORKSHOP

Chatted With Soldier Patients; Bought Articles at Workshop

In spite of a day crowded with engagements, Lady Haig found time yesterday to visit the Provincial Jubilee Hospital and the Red Cross workshop, thus giving expression to her deep interest in nursing and in disabled veterans.

At the hospital, Lady Haig was received by Dr. E. M. Pearse, medical superintendent, and Miss Jessie McKenzie, director of nursing, and they conducted the Countess around the institution. At her own request, Lady Haig was first conducted to the soldiers' ward, where she chatted with the patients, showing the keenest interest in the diversions supplied for them. The distinguished visitor also spent some time in the operating room, and the nature of her questions reflected her intimate knowledge of hospital work, acquired during the war when she was engaged in nursing wounded soldiers.

With Mrs. and Miss Home and Col. Nangle, Lady Haig also paid a visit to the Red Cross workshop, where she was received by Major Okell, manager. Her ladyship was most enthusiastic over the scheme and its operation, and after chatting with the disabled men employed there, she bore away with her a number of purchases of their handiwork, a tangible evidence of her sympathy with the workshop and its aims.

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, JULY 15

Generally propitious planetary conditions rule this day, both by lunar and mutual directions. The dominant influence is from the trine of the moon to Jupiter, and this, assisted by the lights in most favorable position, should bring success and prosperity to all undertakings, enhancing the opportunities, expanding the business interests and increasing the financial returns. The auspicious place of Uranus may lead to new openings through change or travel. Those in the employment of others are under excellent auguries for advancement or preferment. It may be well to be on guard for fraud and treachery.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of progress and success in all directions. Promotion seems assured and the finances are well protected. A child born on this day should be splendidly endowed as to character and talents, and may prosper in its undertakings, whether in business or employment, and should rise in life to a splendid position.

"SALLY" DELIGHTS VICTORIA CROWD AT CAPITOL NOW

Ziegfeld's "Sally" has left his tender care and now is in the movies.

Colleen Moore is the new "Sally," as revealed yesterday on the screen at the Capitol Theatre. She is altogether a charming and personable heroine, delighting her audience with moments of hoydenish humor, much human interest and no little genuine drama. As a starring vehicle for Colleen Moore, "Sally" truly exceeds even such successes as "Flaming Youth" and the recent "So Big." It provides this dainty First National star with the means of proving there is, apparently, no limit to her versatility.

First "Sally" is seen as the forlorn little inmate of a foundling home. Then she is seen as the drudge in the kitchen of the Elm Tree Inn. Quickly the action shifts and by a series of circumstances "Sally" is plunged into the vortex of a gay life as revealed at the lawn fete of a multi-millionaire.

Here is where we glimpse a new and different "Sally," gorgeous in her lovely raiment, impersonating a noted Russian dancer. There is a pretty love thread running through this screen version which is an adaptation made by June Mathis.

DOMINION FILM BRINGS PROBLEM OF MODERN LIFE

"Are Parents People?" seems to be a superfluous question when we meet Mr. and James Hazlitt, wealthy Pasadenans, whose seventeen-year-old daughter, Lita, is a pupil of Miss Barton's boarding school in another suburb of Los Angeles. If they were not people as well as parents—people human to an extreme in their petty differences and quarrels, neither of them would have admitted their inexplainable incompatability. Certainly, the fact that they let their contradictoriness get on each other's nerves is proof positive that they are people as well as parents.

To cut a long story short, the Hazlitt's have decided to separate and summon Lita to decide whether she is going to Paris with her father or to Reno with her mother. Lita decides to make herself the bone of contention by refusing to take sides, so she announces "I'm going back to school and stay there! I shall never choose between you."

"Are Parents People?" is one of the most pleasing pictures that have reached the Dominion Theatre in months.

MUSICAL COMEDY COMPANY IN LAST APPEARANCE HERE

"The Honeymoon Trail," the final musical comedy offering of the Frank Morton company, opened at the Playhouse last night and was received with keen appreciation by a representative audience. The bill is of the farce variety, with rapid action, clever satire and a side splitting climax. Frank Morton, in a "straight" makeup, plays a light comedy role in excellent manner with Gladys Vaughan, as the young newlywed wife, playing a delightful ingenue. Roy Earl is at home in another eccentric character with Hilda Cooke, surprising the audience by her clever character impression. The usual musical specialties made pleasing interludes throughout the performance. The Playhouse screen features "Temporary Marriage," a modern tale based on a modern problem. A cast that is really "all star" sent the picture over to a hit.

FILM STARS ARE HUMOROUS FOLK

A bit of byplay indulged in by Aileen Pringle and Antonio Moreno during the filming of "One Year to Live," M. C. Levee's new First National feature, being shown all the week at the Coliseum, was called "Socks Appeal."

It was travesty on the producers and directors who are always urging more sex appeal, as if that were the only thing necessary toward the success of a picture.

Miss Pringle and Moreno rehearsed the scene, and, assembling the rest of the company, came out upon an improvised stage, each holding two socks in their hands.

"What de we represent?" they asked.

"Santa Claus in Hollywood," answered Dorothy Mackaill.

"Bigger and Better Christmases," replied Rosemary Theby.

"The family wash," added Director Irving Cummings.

"You're all wrong," rejoined Miss Pringle and Mr. Moreno.

"We give up," chorused back the company.

"More socks appeal!"

"N. G." shouted Cummings.

Marion Davies is Star at Columbia

Proves Histrionic Ability in Latest Screen Triumph

Marion Davies never was more beautiful or more outstanding in her acting than in "Janice Meredith," the latest Cosmopolitan motion picture, which truly has been greeted as one of the most brilliant productions ever made, and which opened at the Columbia Theatre yesterday for a three days' run. Miss Davies, as beautiful as ever, reaches new heights in histronic ability. In the cast of upwards of 8,000 persons supporting her, Harrison Ford is the faithful lover and Holbrook Blinn the charming but utterly despicable villain.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL ON WAY TO ARCTIC

Lord Byng Left Edmonton Yesterday For Long Trip Down Mackenzie River

He and Party Expect to be Back in Edmonton August 14

Edmonton, July 14—Lord Byng departed for the Arctic yesterday afternoon, following the official opening of the Edmonton Exhibition and Stampede, at which he presided. His party left here in a special car on the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, with Grande Prairie as the first stop in the jaunt to Aklavik, on the Arctic Ocean. The Governor-General expects to be back in Edmonton on August 14, allowing a month and a day to cover the round trip.

From Grande Prairie the party will proceed by motor to Peace River Landing. A steamer trip down the Peace River will follow. From Fitzgerald there will be more or less rough trekking across the portage to Fort Smith, on the Slave River, where the party will board the Alberta and Arctic steamer Distributor for the long trip down the Mackenzie River. The big river boat will take approximately three weeks to complete the 2,700 miles to Aklavik in the Mackenzie delta and back. The party will board the steamer Athabasca River at Fitzgerald August 11 and reach the end of steel at Waterways August 13 and Edmonton the following day.

NEWS BY RADIO

During his long voyage to the Arctic the Governor-General will not lose touch with the outside world. A powerful wireless receiving and sending set has been installed aboard the Distributor by the Department of Militia and Defence, and the Governor-General will be kept informed of happenings at Ottawa and elsewhere in the world.

Messages will be sent and received by way of the Government wireless station at Fort Simpson, the halfway point on the Mackenzie River between Edmonton and Aklavik.

Lord Byng's trip to the Arctic will be entirely of an unofficial nature. It is his desire to see the country and the trading and police posts, and more especially to meet the people of the Far North.

He seemed to enjoy the ride. He was paddled past the crowd along the shore after the race in another dugout propelled by natives.

NORTHWESTERN BRINGS SALMON AND COPPER ORE

H. F. Alexander Completes Hundredth Voyage in Coastal Run

Seattle, July 14.—Bringing shipments of the new Alaska salmon pack and more than 1,000 tons of copper ore, the liner Northwestern of the Alaska Steamship Company fleet, arrived here Monday.

The steamship Victoria, the "gold" ship, is to depart on her second voyage of the season Wednesday, going as far north as Teller, on Bering Strait.

When the fast coastal liner H. F. Alexander docked here yesterday the vessel had completed its one hundredth California-Puget Sound voyage. The Alexander brought 450 passengers.

Two hundred passengers arrived on the Admiral Rogers here yesterday from Southeastern Alaska points. The majority were round trip excursionists.

Three intercoastal freighters of the Munson McCormick Line are due to arrive during July and August, the Felix Taussig, scheduled July 20, the Charles R. McCormick Augus t3, and the William A. McKenney August 18.

BURST STEAMPIPE CAUSES TWO DEATHS ON SS. KUSHANOOK

Three Members of Crew of C.P.R. Steamer Crawl Through Steam

John E. Parker and H. Forbes, Deckhands, Dead; R. A. Davies Injured

Kaslo, July 14.—Two men are dead and a third has a precarious hold on life in consequence of the bursting of the water trap of the main steampipe feeding the engine of the C.P.R. steamer Kushanook, at 4.30 o'clock Monday morning, as she lay at the wharf here an hour before her scheduled departure for Nelson.

The dead are: John E. Parker, deckhand, Nelson, son of Caleb Parker, C.P.R. section man, and H. Forbes, deckhand, son of George Forbes, of Vermilion, Alta. The third victim is R. A. Davies, deckhand, son of Walter Davies of Nelson, and at last accounts he was believed to have a good chance of life.

WERE SLEEPING

All three youths were sleeping in bunks on the lower deck just aft of the engine, when the water trap exploded with a terrific roar, throwing scalding water and emitting scalding steam. The explosion brought Kaslo people out of doors in night attire.

W. Gall, second engineer, who, a moment before, had been standing by the water trap, was at a gangway and in the open air, and he sprang forward to the boiler in the fore part of the vessel and shut off the steam. Davies is said to have made his escape by a rear exit from his bunk, thus being less badly scalded than the others. Forbes, however, on his hands and knees, crawled forward through the steam toward the open gangway at which Gall had been standing. Parker crawled directly forward in the steam, blundering into the machinery. He was eventually lifted over a partition that separated the engine and the bunks, terribly scalded. Parker died at 10 o'clock and Forbes at noon.

INSPECTED RECENTLY

The Kushanook boilers were recently rebuilt in Winnipeg and inspected by Great Lakes inspectors before being shipped back to Nelson. Both the boiler, the engine and all fittings were inspected by Vancouver inspectors of the Dominion Government less than a month ago at Fairview shipyard at Nelson.

It is believed the steam pressure at the time of the explosion was only 165 pounds, whereas in recent tests the water trap withstood successfully 250 pounds. The C.P.R. is at a loss to explain the occurrence.

Dr. E. C. Arthur of Nelson is on his way to Kaslo to hold an inquest, and th ecompany is also starting an investigation.

MAJESTIC'S FAST VOYAGE

A cable from Capt. George R. Metcalfe of the White Star liner Majestic, received at New York Thursday morning, reported a passage of five days, nine hours, forty-six minutes from New York to Cherbourg, at an average speed of 24.98 knots an hour. Fog and adverse winds and sea were encountered in the first half of the voyage, and an average of more than twenty-five knots an hour was sustained in the last half.

The Majestic's record hourly average from shore to shore is twenty-five knots, or nearly thirty land miles an hour, made in May of this year.

The new graving basin at Esquimalt as it appeared when the water was turned into it for the first time recently. The illustration gives an excellent view of the surface features of the dock which will be ready for operation in the new year when the huge floating caissons to form the gates have been completed by Yarrows Limited, Esquimalt. The dock, when complete, will be the second largest in the world, and capable of holding the largest ships afloat.

PACIFIC FLIGHT TENDER RETURNING FROM WASTED TRIP

Supply Ship to Argentine Pacific Flight Headed For Seattle

Major Pedro Zanni and Party Have Not Yet Given up Flight Plans

Nearing the end of her long voyage in which she was to have acted as mothership for the Argentine flyer, Pedro Zanni, in his attempt to cross the Pacific by air, the deep sea tug Canada was spoken by Canadian wireless last night when 150 miles from Seattle. The Canada went to Yokohama and return, and is now completing the last leg of her voyage home, via Seward.

Major Pedro Zanni and his party are nearing the coast on the Africa Maru, having abandoned the attempt to fly the Pacific owing to the crash of his last aeroplane in Asiatic waters. The aviator, however, is not yet through with his adventures for he has announced tentative plans for a flight from New York to Montevideo, on the east coast of the South American continent.

In his attempt to circle the globe by air Major Zanni flew 16,000 miles, from Holland across the European continent to Japan, for part of that distance making the most exceptional time recorded by any of the round-the-world air parties. The crash of his first machine, followed in a short while by a mishap to the relief aircraft when on exhibition flight, put an end to one of the most promising attempts of 1924.

"Pat" Murphy, advance agent for the Argentine flyer; Lieut. Velo, his colleague on the flight; and Dr. Sergio Garcia Uribura, Argentine Minister to Japan, are in the party on board the Africa Maru, expected to arrive here toward the latter part of this week.

PARANA MUST WAIT FOR HER CREW HERE

President McKinley Bringing Chinese to Replace Men Discharged

Paying off a crew of fourty-four Chinese who had completed a sixteen month contract on the Ss. Parana of the Steamship Company Orient, Copenhagen, cleared yesterday for Comox to bunker there.

The Parana was taken north by a white crew, temporarily signed on for the trip. On her return to this port on Wednesday the Parana will await the arrival of the President McKinley, on which her new crew arrives from Shanghai.

In the trans-Pacific trade Chinese crews are booked through the Shipping Exchange at Shanghai on a stated time contract, and must be replaced at the end of the period. The Chinese in some cases work for $32 Mexican a month, in place of the $60 gold expected by white crews.

Through this situation white crews are becoming a rarity in vessels plying in and out of this port on ocean runs.

Kaga Maru Leaves With Full Cargo

In a 6,000-ton cargo the Japanese liner carried flour, lumber, pulpwood, cattle, hides, copper and general wares.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt.—To find the depth of water on the sill of the dry dock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

Marking its last entrance into the San Francisco harbor under the colors of W. R. Grace & Co., the freighter Santa Malta has arrived with a full cargo of general merchandise from the East Coast.

The Panama Pacific liner Finland arrived from New York with several hundred passengers and a fair amount of general cargo.

With passengers and freight from Australia via South Sea Island ports and Honolulu, the Ocean liner Sierra is scheduled to arrive at this port to-day.

The Dollar liner President Lincoln is scheduled to arrive here Wednesday from the Orient, completing her first round-the-world trip under the Dollar ensign.

Taken suddenly ill at the Empress Hotel, where he was a guest, he was conveyed to St. Joseph's Hospital where he passed away yesterday afternoon after a few hours' illness.

The late Mr. Spencer was seventy-four years of age and is survived by his widow and a sister, who accompanied him to Victoria. NEWS IN BRIEF

John Sykes and Sydney Sangster were fined $15 apiace in the city police court this morning. The two men engaged in a fight and were necessarily separated by police officers, following which they appeared before Magistrate Jay to-day.

Three persons charged with vagrancy, George Crawford, Ivan Mathews and Julia Rolland, on remand, were all remanded until to-morrow. The former will be placed in the hands of the Emigration Department. All are recent arrivals in the city and will have left here shortly.

The practice of planting red flags at the side of the road on the Island Highway without occasion must stop, say the Provincial police. In the past residents at the roadside have taken this informal means of slowing down motor traffic to obviate the clouds of dust that have covered their gardens. Now motorists are beginning to ignore the red flags from their over frequency, and the danger of a genuine danger signal being disregarded is feared.

E. W. White of the Horticultural Department and Geo. Robinson of Elk Lake, made their first visit as judges of the Home Garden Competition Friday. It is very gratifying to the Victoria and District Gardeners' Association under whose auspices the competition is run to learn that there is a marked improvement in many of the gardens this year. Keen competition amongst the lending gardens is promised. The Marchant cup is at present held by G. T. Williams, winner during the last two years. Success this time will make him the proud possesor of this trophy.

Mayor Carl Pendray will be absent from the City Hall for the next few days, being one of the leading speakers at the annual convention of the National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association, opening in Seattle to-morrow morning and continuing until Friday. On Thursday afternoon Mayor Pendray will address the convention in his capacity of president of the British America Paint Company, his speech dealing with methods of building an executive from the personnel of a business. The Publicity Bureau has invited the 900 delegates to visit Victoria, and this invitation will be warmly supported by Mayor Pendray.

DEXTER CUMMINGS LEADER AT GOLF

Detroit, July 14.—Dexter Cummings of Chicago, twice inter-collegiate champion, to-day won the qualifying medal in the Western amateur golf championship at Lochmor with the remarkable score of 138 for thirty-six holes. He took two strokes off par to-day with a 70 and set a new record for the second nine with a 33, which is three under par. He might have equalled his 68 card of yesterday except for a few slips on the first nine, where he took thirty-seven strokes.

The Canadian amateur champion, Don Carrick of Toronto, finished the thirty-six holes with a total of 152, a score which will probably qualify him. The Canadian shot a 75 yesterday, but he slipped two strokes above that in to-day's round.

SMALL FRUIT CROP IN FULL SWING ON SAANICH PENINSULA

Loganberries and Raspberries Now Moving Fast, Growers' Reports Show

Okanagan Gets Good Growing Weather; Fine Vegetables But Poor Berries

The Saanich Peninsula's big loganberry and raspberry crop is moving at top speed now, according to the weekly report on agricultural conditions issued by the B.C. Department of Agriculture to-day.

"Loganberries are the principal fruit being handled now," says the report. "The local wine factory, the jam factory and the cannery all are busy on logans. Raspberries also are being handled in considerable quantities. The drying up of the fruit of the loganberry, which has caused considerable loss, has now been more or less definitely attributed to drought last Summer and Winter injury."

Conditions in the Okanagan country are described as follows:

"Good growing conditions have prevailed over the past week. Irrigation is maintaining soil moisture conditions in good shape for growing crops. A good heavy rain at this stage would be appreciable by farmers in non-irrigated sections.

"All tree fruits are developing well in healthy orchards. There is, however, considerable russetting and browning of apples (Drouth Spot) in some instances where trees suffered from injury during the past Winter.

FREE FROM PESTS

"Generally speaking tree fruits are very free from pests and diseases this year, and the shipping quality of fruit should be good.

"In the small fruits, strawberries were a poor crop. Raspberries are now in heavy volume and of excellent quality. Blackberries are promising a good crop of fine fruits. These will be on the market at an early date.

"Vegetable crops are excellent and promise well both as to quality and tonnage.

TOMATOES ON SALE

"Local field grown semi-ripe tomatoes are on sale this past week and the first local outdoor cucumbers have been seen. This is around ten days earlier than for the past several seasons.

INDIAN FISHERMAN KILLED BY STORM

Winnipeg, July 14.—From the wilds of the Bering River Indian Reserve on Lake Winnipeg comes a story of a terrible storm that left death and destruction in its wake last week.

One Indian fisherman was killed by a bolt of lightning, while a companion and two squaws were seriously injured.

Such was the fury of the storm that the small settlement was almost levelled, trees uprooted and boats carried away. When the storm abated, the Indians fled from the scene. Despite the rough condition of the lake the refugees did not stop rowing in the remaining boats until they reached Bering River, where the injured were treated.

PREMIER OLIVER GOES TO HIS DELTA FARM

Receiver For Opera Company

Vancouver, July 14.—Upon the application of Carl Bundschu and Miss Theo Penington, Mr. Justice Murphy to-day appointed Donald Gray receiver of the Brandon Opera Company.

Alfred Bull, who two weeks ago before Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald strenuously and successfully opposed the receivership, stated he now considered a receiver should be appointed, in view of the facts that the company's engagement here was ended and it was stranded here.

Mr. Bull's clients were Ray F. Brandon, W. Lee Brandon and the Brandon Opera Company.

ANDREW H. PEPALL TO STAND TRIAL

Toronto, July 14.—Andrew H. Pepall, extradited from Los Angeles on charges arising out of sales of bonds of the Province of Ontario, was committed for trial this afternoon by Magistrate Edmund Jones.

The defence counsel will make application for bail to a judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario to-morrow morning.

An additional charge was made by the Crown when Pepall appeared in police court to-day that he had unlawfully given or agreed to give a $12,500 bribe to Peter Smith, then Provincial Treasurer.

Crown Attorney McRuer withdrew the charges of receiving securities valued at $381,000 and of accepting a bribe while an agent of the Ontario Provincial Treasurer because there was doubt as to whether the charges were upheld by the California court which granted extradition.

PROCEEDINGS STAYED

Winnipeg, July 14.—When the case of Joseph Myers, managing director of the Bingo Gold Mines Limited, was called in city police court here this morning, R. B. Graham, crown prosecutor, announced a stay of proceedings had been entered on the remaining three charges of making false statements with intent to defraud against the accused.

LETTER RATE REDUCED

Ottawa, July 14.—Hon. Charles Murphy, Postmaster-General of Canada, announces the rate on letters to the British West Indies has been reduced to three cents for a one-ounce letter and two cents for each subsequent ounce. This is the rate which applies within Canada itself and to the United States and Mexico.

SCOPES REPORTERS GIVEN WARNING

Dayton, Tenn., July 14.—Judge John T. Raulston announced late today he would withhold his decision on the defence motion to quash the indictment against John T. Scopes until to-morrow.

He explained the delay was due to a report he had received that certain news reporters had "sought to anticipate" the nature of his ruling. He declared that if he found on investigation that any reporter of a news service had violated the privacy of the court, he would proceed to institute contempt proceedings against him.

The court was adjourned at 3.45 until to-morrow.

BIG FOREST FIRE TO-DAY NEAR MICHEL

Fernie, July 14.—Dense clouds of smoke are drifting over Fernie today from a big forest fire which is burning fiercely three or four miles east of Michel, near the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company's lumber camp No. 2.

The fire assumed alarming proportions yesterday afternoon and a large number of men have been sent to fight the flames.

Where Scores Died In Boston Building Collapse

With the crash of shattered timbers and falling walls, the revelry of the Pickwick Dancing Club at Boston, Mass., was suddenly stilled, to be instantly succeeded by the cries of the injured. More than forty were killed and over 100 injured.

Amid scenes of horror that turned strong men sick, firemen and volunteer workers strove to tear apart the mass of wreckage that once was a palace of jazz in their search for the victims of the disaster that turned the Pickwick Club of Boston from a joyous dance club into a funeral pile. Photo shows firemen and helpers removing one of the victims to the long waiting line of dead wagns.

ROSING TALKS TO KIWANIS CLUB ON ART OF SINGING

Famous Tenor Delights Luncheon Audience

Vladimar Rosing, world famous tenor, was the guest of the Kiwanis Club at to-day's luncheon, delighting the members with an eloquent outline of the system whereon he has developed his art.

"Political efforts, no matter how well directed, will not make life beautiful, it takes art to develop the great possibilities of the world," he said. Singing is one form of art, and to give an adequate beauty, the singer must have an insight to the inspiration of the composer harmonizing the vision of the poet.

THOUGHT OF POET

"It is as though another soul takes possession of your body and uses you to express that thought of the poet.

"If we are attuned, if we are in harmony, we feel a certain bond of sympathy, even though we have never met before. We note something we like about each other, while if we meet a crook, the subconscious mind sends a message and we decide 'I do not like this fellow.'"

THE DUTY OF ART

"So it is when you attend a concert, you go away, having a subconscious opinion of the artist and his art, but sooner or later a flower is born of that experience. As it is the duty of religion to improve the lives of people, so it is the duty of art to improve the taste and mind of the people," he said after describing the true artist as the servant, not the master, of his art.

"Bankers, politicians, merchants, all depart this world, but art lives on, and it is the work of great artists which survives to us to-day from the distant past, and that is why you, who have the interest of your country at heart, should advance the development of a national art, an international art widespread, through all the people, for all peoples are one soul before God.

"As the eyes of a man serve the feet or the hands, the mouth, being different tissues yet all one person, so are all the nations of the world, differing, yet all one," he said in a brief summary of human association as viewed by the artist.

"So that is how I base and build my art, that is what I am trying to advance in my little way. It is a worthwhile ideal to live for. Each of you has his duty, and by following the call sincerely, all will look back after the passing years to work done to the best of our ability and of some small value to the world."

He closed with a eulogy of Victoria and her beautiful location amid tremendous applause.

LESLIE DICKIE DIED IN ASYLUM

Man Tried at Nanaimo After Death of Grandchild Succumbed at Essondale

Word has been received here of the death of Leslie Dickie, who was acquitted at Nanaimo on May 27 on a charge of murdering his two-year-old grandchild while it lay in its mother's arms and was lodged in Essondale Mental Hospital as a religious maniac.

He died in the mental hospital.

The case created extraordinary public interest as it revealed mediaeval belief in demonaic possession, passionat econfidence in heavenly glory and trust in Divine healing.

During the trial the accused stated the Divine power to heal came to him during a meeting conducted by Rev. Dr. Price after he had repeated "Glory to God" several times.

JURY'S VERDICT

Outstanding in the annals of the courts of Western Canada the case was remarkable to the last as Dickie was acquitted by the jury. It transpired the jurors meant "Not guilty—because of insanity."

It was decided to commit Dickie to the asylum, which would have been done had the intended verdict been given.

HIS OBSESSION

On Saturday, November 8, 1924, Dickie became obsessed with a belief taht his wife was possessed of a demon. He slapped her and tore her hair during his ravings from early morning until 4 p.m., when his son William, aged eighteen, ordered him to desist, but was driven from the house.

Another son, Andrew, aged twenty-six, felled the father rather than see the treatment of his mother. But the aged man recovered, and during the night killed several mice and two young kittens during his religious manifestations.

FOR SIXTEEN HOURS

Mary Dickie, his daughter, aged 24, had held her baby in her arms for 16 hours when the tragedy came. The infant started to whimper at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, not having eaten or had its clothes changed since the religious orgy began.

The baby had been prostrated with typhoid at Merritt, and brought to Nanaimo for a change. The grandfather declared it was possessed when he heard it cry.

He ordered the family to gaze out of the windows heavenwards and threatened God would strike them down if they turned their eyes. Mary told the court simply, "I believed he would."

HANDS ON FACE

The grandfather placed his hands over the baby's face, she declared, and fifteen minutes later announced, "Your child is dead."

A long ritual wherein the child was placed on a table and attempts made to restore it by Divine healing failed. The murder charge followed.

Doctors, during the trial, stated death was evidently due to suffocation, but would not swear that was the sole cause.

Fine Tennis Seen At Opening Day's Play At Willows

Rennie Wins His Match With Lose of Single Game; Other Visitors Win

To-day's Play Will See Many Other Outside Players in Action; Turf Good

First round matches were played yesterday afternoon in the annual B. C. Championships being held at the Victoria Tennis Club. There were no upsets in the first day's play and favorites and ranking players all came through as expected, although many of the matches were very close.

LeRoy Rennie, Ontario champion and ex-Canadian title holder, won his preliminary round defeating Don Campbell of Brentwood College, with the loss of but a single game. Rennie seems to like the Victoria turf and was playing beautifully.

E. A. Purkiss, director of the famous Slazenger tennis firm in Canada, who is touring the West, had a hard three-set match with A. C. Brand of Abbotsford, the second set going to 11-9. The Toronto man seemed the steadier and won the third set 6-2.

McLean, a player from the Laurel Club of Vancouver, won his match against Bert Flett of the local club, 6-3, 6-3.

A. F. Wilkes, also of Vancouver, had greater difficulty than his teammate, McLean, and had to go three close sets before he could win from Cabledu.

In the men's doubles Casselman of Edmonton and Walter Martin, junior champion from Regina, won their first round doubles without much trouble.

MARJORIE WINS HER MATCH

Marjorie Leeming, champion of Canada made her first appearance since her victorious Vancouver trip and won her singles match from Mrs. McGivern of the Victoria club. The first set was close and exciting, and Mrs. McGiverin deserves great credit for her showing.

Miss Gladman of California, paired with Gerald Cunningham of this city, had no trouble in winning their mixed doubles from Miss Phillips and Matthews.

To-day all the stars are making their appearance and close exciting tennis will be witnessed in all events. Fighters Thrown Out of Ring by Referee For Long Stalling

Newark, N. J. July 14—The New Jersey Boxing Commission will investigate a title match between Paul Berlenbach and Young Marullo, of New Orleans, which was stopped in the ninth round last night for stalling.

Frequent clinches brought action from Referee Henry Lewis. The principals appeared bewildered when the contest was halted and left the ring only upon request by police. Berlenbach keeps his light heavyweight crown, but promoters are withholding payment to the boxers pending a decision by the boxing commission.

Berlenbach's manager said after the champion had retired to the dressing-room that Berlenbach had hurt his right hand.

American Six-metre Yachts Wins Third Race in Scotland

Goodrich, Former Newsboy, Crowned Lightweight King

Won Leonard's Crown by Beating Loayza of Chile Who Broke His Ankle

New York, July 14.—Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, N.Y., a former newsboy, won the world's lightweight championship, staged under the auspices of the state athletic commission, when he scored a technical knockout over Stanislaus Loayza of Chile, in the second round of what was originally carded as a 15-round bout at the Queensboro A.C., last night.

Five times in the first round Goodrich knocked the Chilean to the floor in the most sensational first round since Dempsey and Firpo fought their memorable battle at the Polo grounds, in 1923. Goodrich simply overwhelmed his rival by his superior strength.

He knocked the Chilean down three times and 10,000 persons were on their feet cheering madly at the game exhibition when another rush caught Loayza off balance and he measured his length again, slowly coming to his feet after a count of seven. He started to limp.

HOBBLED ON ONE FOOT

Another well-directed right sent him crashing to the mat for the fifth time and he remained down for a count of seven, struggling to his feet with difficulty. This time he started to hobble around on one foot.

His face was wreathed in agony, but he slashed away at the battling Goodrich, backing away on one foot and balancing himself by hanging on to the ropes and hitting with his freehand.

The bell found him upright but in an apparently bad condition. His handlers worked feverishly over him during the minute rest between rounds and he came up fresh, but he was favoring his bad leg and it was evident that the end was near. Goodrich rushed again, but the towel beat him.

An examination found that Loayza had broken a bone in his ankle.

West Has No Man Good Enough For Davis Cup Team

Crocker and Wright Elected Themselves to Play For Canada; May Pick Third Man

Los Angeles, July 14.—A cash purse of $10,000 for the Los Angeles open golf tournament scheduled to be held here early next January was posted by the Southern California Professional Golfers' Association at a meeting here last night.

Vancouver, July 14.—Willard Crocker and Jack Wright of Montreal have been recommended as Canada's Davis Cup team for 1925. The recommendation was made by the advisory committee selected for the purpose.

According to a member of the committee Crocker and Wright selected themselves by their showing in the championships and the decision to recommend them was unanimous.

It may be necessary to name a third player to act as spare and the committee has recommended that if this is found necessary an eastern player be named.

WEST HAS MUCH TO LEARN

The members were agreed that Western Canada had no player of Davis Cup calibre, nor one with sufficient ability to warrant sending him East to act as spare. Another thing, the expense of sending a man from the West would be costly.

Australian Davis Cup Players Doing Very Well in East

Brookline, Mass., July 14—Sturdy opposition was encountered by Gerald L. Patterson, Australian Davis Cup star, in a third round match of the 33rd annual Longwood Bowl singles tournament which began at the Longwood Cricket Club in Chestnut Hill yesterday. Patterson won in straight sets, subduing G. Peabody Gardner Jr., of Brookline, former inter-collegiate champion, 10-8, 6-2, 9-7. By his victory Patterson moved a round ahead of the field.

The days' feature was the ousting of the fourth seeded American, Cranston Holman, of Stanford University, runner-up for the inter-collegiate singles title this year. Facing a battery of volleys from the racquet of Carl Pfaffman, former Harvard tennis captain, Holman started a wild streak in the deciding set of which Pfaffman was quick to take advantage. The scores were 6-1, 2-6, 7-5.

Otherwise the day was devoid of overturns.

Those who reached the third round were Patterson and John B. Hawkes of Australia; T. Harada and M. Fukuda, of Japan, and the seeded Americans Alden H. Smith, Fritz Mercur, present title holder; Arnold W. Jones and N. W. Niles.

World's Greatest Sculler

JACK BERESFORD, Jr.

Yesterday on the Thames River Beresford defeated Walter Hoover the best sculler in the United States by three lengths. It was a special race. Beresford had previously beaten Hoover in the Diamond Sculls and the Britisher handed the Philadelphia Golf Cup, which the Americans claimed denotes the world's championship, back to the United States. This aroused a controversy and the American's appealed to Beresford's sportsmanship to race Hoover. Beresford agreed but stipulated that if he won he would not hold the Philadelphia Cup but send it back to the States. Hoover now acknowledges Beresford's superiority.

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR TENNIS

By WILLIAM T. TILDEN, 2nd

THE COMMON ERROR OF OVERPLAY

Each player, until he has had years of match experience, falls into certain errors of omission as well as commission. Errors of tactics as well as strokes are costly in tennis. There is the error of "overplaying," usually reserved for "young Pete Swattem," the local hopeful and schoolboy wonder.

Overplaying, or "pressing," is a desire to "kill" the ball every time it is hit. Obviously it is impossible to beat a man cleanly often, no matter how fast your shot may be, unless he is first driven out of position. A tennis court is not so large, and it does not require a great deal of speed of foot to cover it. Therefore, it is folly to try to win off every shot, for it can't be done. The only effect you will have is to pile up a great string of errors.

Learn to hit your shots with a good natural pace. Swing with precision. Do not "slug" the ball. By that I mean do not simply hit hard for the sake of speed. In tennis an ounce of brains is worth a pound of brawn, and common sense should always direct your efforts.

There is no reason to attempt to hit until you have an opening. So many young players think their speed will beat any one. Speed alone is useless. It must have control, and control of speed is only possible when you have learned which shots can be hit hard and which cannot.

You can hit hard if the ball comes to you waist high, just where you like it. Your body is in position, your weight controlled and the shot coming to you not too fast.

On all other shots you should use average pace and strive for placement. I see no reason to waste energy and points by unnecessary slugging.

My next article will be "The Error of Underplay."

This race marked Ladkin's first appearance of the season. The time for the six furlongs was 1.08 3-5. The race carried $1,500 added money.

Yankees To Spend Quarter Million Dollars On Team

Scouts Raking Minor Leagues For Players; Giants Are Also Hustling

New York, July 14—Reports of a campaign in which $250,000 will be spent in the acquisition of new players for the New York Yankees by next season were confirmed by club officials yesterday. Recommendation for the purchase of five players in the Pacific Coast League has been made by scouts, according to word received at the Yankees' office here.

Directed by Eddie Holly, chief scout of the Hugmen, six assistants are raking over the Coast League, while others are searching for talent elsewhere.

Coast players reported as prospects are Hal Rhyne and Paul Waner, shortstop and outfielder respectively for the San Francisco club; Tony Lazerre, shortstop of the Salt Lake City team; Jack Warner, Vernon third baseman, and Mervyn Shea, Sacramento catcher.

DEALS COMPLETED

Although Edward G. Barrow, business manager for the Yanks, denied any deals had been concluded for players, unofficial advices claim that Shea and Lazerre have already been bought.

The Giants' representatives are also angling for new material and Bill Lange, McGraw's Coast scout, has recommended the purchase of Shea.

The Sacramento Club valued Shea at $50,000, and it is reported an offer of $40,000 from Detroit was made two weeks ago, but that the Sacramento management refused an immediate delivery.

Pitchers are also being considered by the Yanks, Mitchell, a southpaw, and Griffin, a right hander, both of the San Francisco Club, being under consideration.

Amateur Golfers Must Shoot Great Golf To Qualify

Second Round in Western Championship Being Played at Detroit To-day

Detroit, July 14—With the realization that it would likely require a score of 153 or better for the two qualifying rounds to get into the championship match play, leaders in the scoring at the Western Golf Association meet at Lochmor Laid with renewed vigor to-day in the second eighteen holes of medal play.

H. D. Cummings, of Chicago, had such a commanding lead at the start of to-day's round with his record of 68 of yesterday that he was a favorite to win medal honors. He stood four strokes ahead of his nearest competitors Rudy Knepper, of Chicago, and Henry Comstock, of Buffalo, who scored par 72. Five men were tied for fourth place with 77 and one of them, James Manion, of St. Louis, shot the second nine in 34 to equal the skill of Cummings on that half. The others were Clarence Hubby, of Dallas, R. A. Stranahan, of Toledo and Howard Schendorf and Raj Rolfe of Chicago.

Chick Evans, seeking the title for the ninth time, had a 74 to his credit. Don Carrick, of Toronto, Canadian champion, made a 75.

Edmonton Cricket Eleven Wins Match With Ridley Team

Edmonton, July 14. — The Ridley College cricketers were defeated in the first of their games against Edmonton representative teams here yesterday, losing by sixteen runs, the scores being 116 to 100. Edmonton had first lease of the wicket, and found runs hard to get, against the excellent bowling of Grobba and Davey. Johnny Wear with 35 and Lionel Parker with 26 were the big scorers for Edmonton.

When the Ridley boys went to the wicket they opened carefully, but runs came fairly quickly. Four wickets were down for 58, and then Grobba and Granger set up a partnership that brought the total to 90 before Grobba fell to a nice length ball by Wear. The board read 94 when the seventh wicket fell, and it looked like the collegians were to pull out with a win, but Davey, Tucker and Hearn fell in rapid succession, and the innings closed with the score an even century.

A second game will be played here to-day.

KING SOLOMON LOSES

Boston, July 14.—Jim Maloney of South Boston won the decision over King Solomon of Panama in their ten-round bout here last night.

Sons Lose Battle And Also Chances Of Winning Title

Beaten in Great Game by Travelers; Parfitt Twirled Good Ball For Winners

Teams Tied two-all in Eighth When Travelers Worked McIntyre For Five Runs

In what was undoubtedly the best amateur game of this season the Travelers defeated the Sons of Canada at the Royal Athletic Park last night by the score of 7-2. The teams played snappy ball and the fans were given thrill after thrill. Up until the eighth inning the teams were tied two-all.

As a result of their defeat the Sons lost all chances of winning the coveted pennant. They are now two games behind the league-leading C.P.R. and with only one game left, which is with the railroaders, they have no chance of catching the fast-stepping railwaymen. The Sons have played great ball all season and have given the C.P.R. their hardest battle to win the league laurels.

Ray Parfitt, who was on the mound for the Travelers, pitched great ball the whole way and well deserved his victory. He allowed nine hits, while seven men were retired via the strike-out route. His fast curves were working to perfection while his control was of the best.

McINTYRE TOO GENEROUS

"Red" McIntyre, the Sons' star hurler, went along nicely until the eighth inning, when he weakened, allowing the sample men to score five runs. He allowed only five hits, but seven men secured free passages to the initial sack.

In the second inning the Sons opened the scoring. Holman singled, was sacrificed to second and third and scored on Sallaway's hit between second and third.

For the next three innings the teams played errorless ball and not a runner crossed the plate.

The Travelers jumped into the lead in the sixth inning. Frank Moore worked McIntyre for a walk. He was sacrificed to second and came home when Robertson doubled to left field. Robertson scored on Chambers's double to the same spot.

The Sons gave the fans some more thrills when they tied up the score in the seventh. Jack Curtis singled and McIntyre walked. Curtis scored when Jim Cummins threw wild to second in an attempt to catch McIntyre stealing.

Pete Sallaway had a great time at first base in the seventh. He put three men out unassisted, two of them being foul balls.

THE WINNING RALLY

All the damage was done when the sample men came to the bat in the eighth with the score standing 2-all. "Hap" Gandy, the first man to bat walked. Cottet got a scratch hit between first and second, Gandy going to third. Robertson was hit on the head by a pitched ball and earned his way to the first sack. Chambers walked, forcing Gandy home with the first run. G. Gandy singled over second, scoring Cottet. Robertson came home on a fielder's choice and Jim Cummins sent another two men over when he singled to centre.

In the eighth Parfitt retired the Sons in quick order and the ball game was over.

Wall Street TO-DAY

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

New York, July 14 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Dealings in the forenoon registered but little change as to price value and transactions up to noon were only fair in size. However, toward the close the market, in general, responded moderately to some new buying, possibly due to short covering, and some specialties showed fair sized gains.

While the renewal rate for money was the same as that of yesterday, namely 4 1-2 per cent, it was quoted at 1-2 of 1 per cent lower later in the day, which probably had something to do with those watching money quotations with the idea that a fluctuation in that line is of sufficient influence to occasion commitment in stocks.

It was reported during the day that the price of gasoline had been advanced by the Standard Oil of Indiana and shortly afterward the Sinclair Company met this advance, the amount being 1 cent a gallon. This fact no doubt lent some stimulus to the oil shares.

We suggest that on any tendency for prices to advance, that the opportunity should be taken to reduce long lines.

New York, July 14 (By B.C. Bond Corporation's direct Wall Street wire)—The Wall Street Journal's stock market edition this afternoon says: Further indications that the market was in sound technical condition were afforded in to-day's session. Although call money renewed at 4½ per cent little selling was precipitated. Most of the offerings appeared to be of professional origin and were readily absorbed by the strong underlying buying power. With the demand for representative stocks displaying such vitality, nervousness regarding the money situation was alleviated.

Greater disposition was in evidence in the financial community to look upon the movement of funds to the interior, which was responsible for the recent flurry in call money, as a healthy sign. Local banks have increased their loans against corporate stocks $473,556,000, compared with a year ago. In view of this reduction in the aavilable supply is perfectly natural to have withdrawals by out of town banks find immediate reflection in a run-up in call money rates. The fact that such calls are now being made augers well for Autumn business without changing the outlook for comfortable money conditions on the stock exchange since the vast reservoir Federal Reserve are practical untouched.

Heavy liquidation of stocks to finance Fall requirements appears to have been less than usual. While White Motors has not participated in the advance to the same extent as other motor trucks stocks, the company's business is on a large scale with a big demand for both trucks and buses. Unofficial sources state profits in the first half year were about $6 a share with new business continuing to show large gains over 1924. The company is reported turning out about 800 vehicles a month and still behind on deliveries of certain vehicle.

Last year net was about $9 a share or about twice the $4 dividend on the 500,000 shares of $50 par capital stock. Stock has recently been purchased in substantial amounts by New York people, a considerable part of this being by interests active in Mack Trucks the last year.

American Hide and Leather stocks were strong, as second quarter earnings were about the same as in the first quarter, when net was $253,000, or $2.30 a share on the present outstanding preferred. The capitalization plan which has been approved by stockholders and by the New Jersey courts can be put through any timem directors deem advisable. Under its provisions preferred stockholders will be able to get new eight per cent prior preferred stock for part of their common.

This new stock would undoubtedly pay dividends upon issuances. It has been estimated this stock would sell near par upon issuance, once the realization spreads that the company is easily able to earn the dividend two to three times over.

Rail shares, particularly Rock Island and the northwestern issues were reactionary due to the decision of the Commerce Commission to delay hearings on the proposed rate increases to September 1. Forthcoming statements of Bethlehem Steel's earnings for next quarter to be issued next week called attentitno to the market position of the stock. Earnings in the second quarter were in the neighborhood of $1.25 a share on the 1,801,519 outstanding common shares. Conservative estimates of earnings of Brooklyn Manhattan Transit system for year ended June 30 indicating $5 a share earned on 769,911 shares of common stock stimulated trading in the shares of New York premier traction company.

The action of the call money rate during the past few days shows banks have their funds sufficiently well employed so that they are averse to accommodating the collateral loan market when borrowers bids fail to realize the rates obtainable from other sources.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Ills., July 14 (By R. P. Clark and Co., Ltd.)—Wheat: Free profit taking check the forward movement of prices early, and led to a sharp break from top prices, but the last few minutes witnessed a determined recovery, which closed the market at practically unchanged levels for the session. The realizing movement was actuated by the less stability manifested by northwest markets, but dips encountered good buying power. The finding of rust on the stem of the plant in the Canadian Northwest has been confirmed by credited authorities, and the forecast was for continued warm weather over the Spring area both sides of the international line, with some moderation from the intense heat suffered the last few days. The wheat market will remain a weather affair for the next week or more. Prices will be responsive to news of bullish import, especially on the dips. We continue to advise caution in following the flurries, but believe that reasonable reactions at the moment afford attractive buying opportunities.

Corn: Displayed distinct weakness and closed sharply lower, although at some recovery from the bottom, in line with the leading cereal. The covering by shorts in corn the last few days has been heavy, and has left the market technically weak without sustained buying power. Temperatures over the belt remain generally high, and until conditions become materially more favorable would fight shy of the selling side on the declines.

Oats: Sold off with the yellow cereal. Trade was not large, and the support was unable to digest the profit taking movement except at moderate concession in price. Commercial demand for this grain remains fairly active, and the basis at the last was steady. Offerings from the country are light. Farmers are credited with intending to market new crop gain lightly. On moderate recessions favor the buying side for a turn.

Rye: Showed weakness and closed sharply lower. Speculative interest in rye is not large, and the market drops repeatedly of its own weight. Foreign demand moderate, with domestic inquiry only fair. Statistical developments in this grain are far from discouraging for the bull adherent, but without adequate buying power it is difficult to enhance values regardless of fundamental conditions.

Chicago, July 14 (By B.C. Bond Corporation's Direct Pit Wire)—Wheat was easier at the opening due to the cables coming lower than due. On the break commission house buying on rust damage reports brought about a substantial rally to a new high for the present upturn. The bulge attracted realizing sales and market developed a weak tone. Weather conditions in Northwest, while cooler, are considered favorable to the development of rust. Russia was reported as having sold another cargo to Italy. Would continue to pick up wheat on the setbacks.

Corn—Reports of heat damage to corn caused further short covering and after opening easier, advanced with wheat. Profit-taking brought a sharp reaction. Would not care to be short any corn at this time.

AUSTRALIAN COAST BOATS ARE TIED UP

Eleven Dock-tied, and Others to be Laid Off

Coastal Trade Comes to Standstill in Serious Impasse

Melbourne, July 14.—The shipping strike ordered by the Australian Seamen's Union began here to-day as scheduled and stopped all movements of vessels. The Herald reports the Cabinet has agreed on a tentative plan for maintenance of essential services.

Melbourne, July 14.—A mass meeting of the Seamen's Union to-day decided to strike immediately and to force the shipowners to include a clause in the shipping articles providing for the same conditions as existed before the deregistration of the union.

All Australian ships will be made idle as they reach home ports, eventually affecting 4,000 mariners. Much distress will be occasioned to the thousands indirectly connected with shipping. Eleven ships are already tied up.

The Interstate Shipowners' Federation last week decided not to enter an agreement reached between the Commonwealth Shipping Board and the Seamen's Unions. This agreement was the acceptance by the Shipping Board of the suggestion that the arbitration court's award with regard to wages and working conditions be accepted.

Passing through Victoria recently prominent heads of Melbourne and coastal services in Australia predicted that the strike would take place. Nothing less than the confiscation of the vessels would satisfy some of the demands made by the Australian Seamen's Union, said one shipping magnate despondently when interviewed here en route to London.

The shipping owners claim that the men are best treated in any country in the world and that the scale of wages and accommodation is on a par with any to be found in the seven seas. Soviet action in fomenting trouble among the seamen and dockworkers is attributed by many as the initial cause of the dispute.

From to-day's dispatch it appears that eleven ships are already tied up and that the others will be subjected to walk-outs as soon as they make port.

NEVER TALKS—Fuller Shellenberger, life prisoner at the Nebraska state penitentiary, hasn't spoken one word for ten years. This is because he "talked himself into prison," confessing a murder when he thought he was dying, only to recover and be convicted and sent to prison. He answers all questions by shaking or nodding his head.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Winnipeg, July 14—Selling pressure mostly on the part of Longs was the main factor in lower prices on the wheat market here to-day, July closing 1 cent lower at 163⅞; October 1½ down at 140¾ and December 1¼ decline at 137⅝. The market generally followed the trend of Chicago and at mid session sharp weakness developed. The buying power was not as broad to-day as yesterday. At the top quotations to-day the October future was about 12 cents above the opening on Saturday morning. The market is very nervous and easily influenced by unfavorable crop news.

There was little feature in the coarse grains, trade volume small and prices sharply lower, especially the old crop futures.

Winnipeg, July 14 (By R. P. Clark & Company Limited)—Wheat: The market finally lost ground to-day, closing 1 cent to ⅛ down, being under pressure from longs more or less all day which found a very moderate buying power, exporters doing practically nothing while the outside public continue to show little interest. The market displayed early strength after a somewhat lower opening, but the weather forecast was little more favorable with somewhat cooler temperatures, predicted with light winds, and longs decided to take profits. At the extreme bulge to-day October had advanced about 12 cents from the opening Saturday morning and many believe this is sufficient for the time being at least, and fully discounts the present crop conditions.

Liverpool cables came 1⅜ pence higher and closed 2 to 2⅛ up, partially following our advance yesterday, but there appeared to be very little export buying although exporters reported fair acceptance overnight of contract grades by the United Kingdom. Private cables state that Russia is still offering wheat for deferred shipment to the continent at prices under North America levels. Trade volume was fairly heavy to-day, but the market lacked the buying power to hold the higher levels although the decline was stubbornly contested.

Rust reports from North and South Dakota and Minnesota continue numerous with the infection spreading with considerable damage predicted crops experts. The reports that stem rust also made its appearance in outside Manitoba was confirmed by Agricultural College authorities but so far the disease is in its very early stages. Development will depend on the weather from this on, the market will be nervous and easily influenced by unfavorable reports.

Coarse Grains: There was no feature to these markets to-day, trade volume very small, with prices sharply lower, especially for the old crop futures.

Flax: Steady market showing a little early strength which was not held. Final figures a little lower. Trade very light.

Winnipeg, July 14 (by B.C. Bond Corporation's direct pit wire).—All grains suffered natural reaction after rapid advance last two days. Conditions distinctly bullish, but buying power is limited and advances were not maintained. The American Northwest is again experiencing excessive heat, while it is little cooler in Western Canada, but there has been no rainfall. Rust reports from Dakotas and Minnesota indicate considerable damage alerady done, with further damage inevitable unless weather conditions change. Higher prices are indicated.

RISE IN RUBBER PRICE DISCUSSED

London, July 14—The British Government does not consider the present price of rubber warrants reconsideration of the existing ordinance restricting the output of the Malay Peninsula, W. G. A. Ormsby Gore, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of the Colonial Office, stated yesterday in the House of Commons in response to a question.

While admitting the present rise in prices was unexpected, Mr. Ormsby Gore declared it meant the amount of rubber for export would be increased automatically after August 1.

But if the prices remained at the present extraordinary high figure, the situation would without doubt be re-examined. Legislation would be required in the Straits Settlements, the Federated Malay States and Ceylon, to increase the percentage after August 1 by twenty per cent. instead of ten per cent. This increase could not be made suddenly without creating a great disturbance, the Colonial Office official explained.

The price of crude rubber has increased about fourfold since the Spring of last year.

New York, July 14.—Clark H. Minor was elected president of the International Canadian General Electric Company yesterday, succeeding A. W. Burchard, who will act as chairman of the board.

CANADA AND RUSSIA HOLD KEY TO WHEAT

O. C. Stine, Foreign Crop Statistician, Predicts Same Crop as Last Year

Washington, July 14.—Canada and Russia were described as holding the key to the wheat situation in a statement by O. C. Stine, foreign crop statistician, issued yesterday by the Department of Agriculture.

At present, Mr. Stine said, the outlook was for about the same crop as last year, but the yield of these two countries might upset calculations.

The statement continued: "Statistical interpretation of conditions reports of sixteen countries, which produce about 75 per cent. of the world's crop outside of Russia and China indicates a production of 2,366,000,000 bushels as compared with 2,363,000,000 bushels last year.

RUSSIA WILL EXPORT

"Russia will export wheat this year instead of importing as last year, and Canada is expected to produce 105,000,000 bushels more than last year. The United States crop is estimated at about 150,000,000 bushels less than last year and a decrease also is represented for the crop in India. Increased production is forecast for Egypt, France and Germany, while China's crop is reported as no better than last year.

"To make the world supply of wheat as great as last year, however, production must be enough greater than last year to make up for reduced stocks. Although stocks have not been reduced in exporting countries to as low a point as expected earlier in the year, it now seems evident that the amount of wheat in exporting countries and afloat is about 75,000,000 bushels less than at the same time last year."

"Advertising is to business as steam is to machinery."

THERE IS ADVERTISING AND ADVERTISING

It is easy to flash a name in print by spending a lot of money in a short time, but that is not advertising—it's just "splashing," and after the "splash" what is left? To keep your lawn green you keep it watered. So is it in advertising—to keep your merchandise before the public you MUST keep on advertising.

TEMPERATURE WAS 112 IN ARIZONA

Phoenix Was Hottest Place in Whole of United States Yesterday

Fourteen Added to Deathlist in Republic; Snow in Virginia

Chicago, July 14.—While many areas of the United States continued to swelter under a tenacious heat wave, the weather man varied his offerings yesterday in a rather surprising manner with a short fall of snow at Blacksburg, Virginia. The white shower followed a thunderstorm and lasted five minutes.

The weather freak brought no comfort, however, to the parched Summer lands of the Middle West and the Rockies, where thermometers were apparently in a race to overstep the century mark. Phoenix, Arizona, a veteran temperature climber, led the country yesterday, reaching 112, against 104 at North Platte, Nebraska, the Middle Western high point. Temperatures ranging from 90 to 100 were noted throughout the humid area.

The death toll continued to mount, fourteen additional fatalities from the heat being recorded. Five persons were killed by lightning and three were drowned. Twenty or more were prostrated.

Storms brought some respite around Omaha and Sioux City. The corn crop in Kansas was badly hit and forest fires were causing apprehension in Oregon.

UNUSUAL ARGUMENT PREPARED FOR COURT

Vancouver, July 14.—Production in the Supreme Court in Victoria on Thursday of Wong Sung was ordered by Mr. Justice Murphy, who yesterday granted a writ of habeas corpus for that purpose upon the application of counsel for the Chinese, a prisoner in Oakalla Jail following conviction on a narcotic drug charge, for which he had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment and fined $200.

The point in the case is novel, inasmuch as it is contended Wong was found guilty of having opium in his possession for which offence another Chinese, Wong Jack, a wealthy Victoria merchant, was convicted and sentenced.

Counsel argues that any opium in Wong Sun's possession was actually in the possession of Wong Jack, employer of the former, who is a gardener; and that Wong Sun did no more than obey his master's orders.

The Crown had been notified of to-day's application and deferred presentation of its side of the case until Thursday in Victoria.

Walter Hill is Sued For $200,000

Billings, Mont., July 14. — Walter Hill, millionaire son of the late James J. Hill, "Empire builder," has been made defendant in a $200,000 alienation suit in the district court here by Frank M. Gottlieb, a rancher and canner living near Big Timber, Montana.

Gottlieb charges Hill stole the affections of his wife, said to be a woman of striking beauty, in the latter part of 1921 and that the alienation resulted in a divorce granted to Gottlob on February 27, 1922. Mrs. Gottlob now is living in Chicago.

SECURITY PACT

London, July 14.—Gen. Smuts, former Premier of South Africa, in a special cable to The London Daily News, expresses profound suspicion of the planned European security pact and says it tends to stereotype and entrench the peace settlement and encourage the "die-hards" to "stand more pat" than ever. General Smuts says he prefers the League covenant to the pact on the ground that it leaves the door open for future changes.

GIRL DROWNED

North Bay, Ont., July 14.—Dorothy Molder, fourteen, of this city, was drowned yesterday in the lake here in about five feet of water, 200 yards from shore.

K. HUFFMAN NAMED NEW GYRO LEADER

Vancouver, July 14—Kenaz Huffman of Denver, Colo., was chosen president of the International Gyro Club at the concluding session of the annual convention here yesterday. Mr. Huffman succeeds R. Rowe Holland of Vancouver.

Denver will entertain the 1927 international convention. Next year the clubs will meet in Winnipeg.

Clarence Lougheed of Calgary, Alta., is international vice-president, and Ed. L. Kagy of Cleveland, one of the founders of Gyro, is international secretary-treasurer.

At the closing session yesterday Halifax, N.S., and Syracuse, N.Y., bid for the 1928 convention; Madison, Wis., the 1929 meeting, and Hamilton, Ont., the 1930 gathering.

The Davenport, Iowa, club was awarded the attendance cup for clubs in Class A, and another Iowa club, Clinton Gyro, won the attendance Cup for Class B clubs.

The convention was brought to a close last night with a banquet and dance attended by 500 persons.

Crop Prospects Continue Favorable

Winnipeg, July 14.—Crop prospects in Western Canada continue favorable despite the intense heat which has prevailed during the last ten days, says the weekly crop report of the agricultural department of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

With the exception of Southern Alberta, where rain is urgently needed, growing conditions are reported to be good and the wheat in many districts is heading out.

Some damage has been experienced in scattered points as the result of hail, but loss from rust, the report states, has been negligible to date.

While conditions are promising along the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, rain is badly needed. In some districts drought damage already has been reported.

Dry warm weather has materially promoted growth of field and fruit crops in British Columbia. Indications point to a crop half of last year's production.

"The Steadfast Heart"

By Clarence Budington Kelland

At last he intruded upon Titus's moroseness, forcing his presence upon the creature belligerently. "Say, you," he said, "I used to know you. The name of Burke don't fit you no more'n a size eleven hat would. . . . Your name wa'n't Burke then. What was it? Remember me, do ye?"

Titus snarled, "Naw, I hain't never seen ye before, and I don't want to see ye ag'in."

"Feller," said Jake, "you're goin' to see me frequent, and someday, when I hain't feelin' cheerful, I'm goin' to give ye a choice betwixt jellin' who ye be and gittin' your turkey's neck twisted."

It was now two months since Lydia Canfield had fled from Rainbow—and still Rainbow did not know where she had gone. Not even her most intimate friends had received a line from her. . . . Angus was no wiser. He had not lifted his hand to follow her, nor his voice to remonstrate with her. From that night he never mentioned her name.

The only visible chang in him was a drawing into himself. He worked, worked, worked. . . . Though often invited, he declined all invitations, and from the day of Lydia's departure Rainbow did not see him socially. It seemed as though she had taken with her in her baggage Angus's gregariousness. His nature, which had been unfolding so rapidly in the sunshine of his rehabilitation, now closed tightly. He became a machine, emotionless, efficient. . . . That was all that remained. He had locked up his soul.

Early in the Spring Henry G. Woodhouse took him into the firm as junior partner. Angus was grateful, showed his gratitude to the best of his constricted ability, but he could take no real pleasure in what would have been a tremendous joy to him a few months before. . . . It is not strange that his friends worried for him.

For a time he avoided even Dave Wilkins, until he saw how that conduct hurt his friend. During those days he relied upon Bishwhang for companionship as he had in the old days. The human side of him seemed to have relapsed a dozen years. . . . In those first days Bishwhang had been the stronger of the two; his love had watched over Angus, his clumsy hand had guided, his silence had comforted, and his solicitude had, perhaps, saved Angus. . . . During these hours Angus was building a wall of reserve behind which he was to hide, and not even Dave Wilkins was permitted to have a full view of what those walls contained.

He accepted his father's presence and his father's malice phlegmatically—perhaps wondering now and then at the man's malicious vagaries. . . . One phase of his father's conduct did puzzle him, and that was the man's apparent fear of Henry G. Woodhouse. This Angus noticed first on an evening when Henry G. drove up to the door of the cottage Angus had taken to house himself and his father. Titus, sitting in the window, saw the approach of his son's employer, and trembling, he sprang to his feet and rushed from the house, not to return until a late hour of the night. . . . Twice after this similar unaccountable conduct puzzled Angus. He decided it was merely some mental symptom of the man's physical condition.

Titus's cough persisted—during the Winter seemed to grow worse and worse. "He hain't got long to live," Dr. Knipe informed Angus, "and a doggone good thing, I say." Titus continued steadily to travel down the hill, and though he was able to be about, it was not difficult to foretell that the end was approaching. Even Titus himself realized this—and his terror at the realization was a dreadful thing to live with. At this time he took to sitting much in an armchair on the sunny porch, and there it was Jake Schwartz's habit to repair at frequent intervals.

Titus and Jake became friends of a sort. Titus looked forward to Jake's visits with the anticipation of a malicious man who enjoys thwarting another's desire. Jake came and came with a grim determination to have his curiosity satisfied.

"I'm a-goin' to figger it out yit," Jake always said as he took his departure. "I'll remember you 'fore I'm done."

"You won't," declared Titus, "cause you hain't never seen me before."

Jake cross-questioned Titus, but the man was close-mouthed and guarded, not without a certain malign shrewdness. Not a word could be had from him which related to his life before he had come to Rainbow with his wife and child. From that date he was willing to describe his vicissitudes and boast of his accomplishments—but 'all that day before his coming was a shut book which he would not open.

Jake baited traps with the names of towns he had worked in, but Titus avoided the pitfalls until, one day, Jake mentioned inadvertently the name of Springfield, Massachusetts. Suddenly he slapped his thigh. "There's where it was, feller," he said to Titus. "I was workin' as journeyman printer fer Ol' Somers—twenty-seven, twenty-eight year ago—mebby more. You remember Ol' Somers? There's where it was! You was stickin' type in that shop—and suthin' else. What else had I ought to remember about ye? . . . And your name wa'n't Burke . . . I know, you was always a-playin' the races . . . I got you that fur, hain't I, friend?"

"You lie. . . . You lie. I hain't never been in Springfield," snarled Titus, but Jake saw fear in his eyes.

"You was, and you was kind of dressy then, a reg'lar dude. Could talk like it, too. . . . Oh, I'm onto your track now, ol' rooster, and I'll git you perty soon."

Next morning in the printing shop Jake was boasting of his success to Dave Wilkins. "Burke wa'n't his name then," said Jake. "Funny sort of first name it was, too. I remember is was a kind of a onusual one."

"If you recall it," said Dave, "bring it to me. Don't mention it to anybody else. Angus has enough on his shoulders without having any new rascality of his father's dug up out of the past."

"Me! . . . Say, I wouldn't mention nothin' to nobody—not for money, not for cash money paid into my hand," Jake declared, and then he stopped, open-mouthed. "Cash money. . . . Cash money. . . . Cash! That's it, that's what I been tryin' to remember. Cash his name was. Cassius was his identical name."

Cash! That name was vaguely familiar, irritatingly suggestive to Dave Wilkins. It carried a significance with it, but what? What did the name of Cash carry on its back? What ought one to connect with the classic name of Cæsar's enemy? . . . Nor could Jake attach a family name to it. "Seems like we jest called him Cash mostly. Didn't have much need fer last names in the shop." But perhaps a week later he rushed upstairs to Dave Wilkins's room and burst through the door. "I got it," he shouted. "By Ginger! I got that off'n my mind at last." He scowled fiercely in his delight. "I got his doggone name. Hughes, that's what it was. Cash Hughes."

"Cash Hughes!" Dave swung around from his desk, leaped to his feet, and stood staring at Jake. "Did you say Cash Hughes? . . . Are you sure, Jake—sure?"

"Sure as preachin'."

FIELD MARSHAL EARL HAIG INSPECTS GUARD OF HONOR AT VICTORIA

EARL HAIG PLEADS FOR UNITY OF VETERANS IN CANADA AS IN OLD LAND

Urges That Canada Follow Example of British Isles in Organization of Ex-service Men; Hundreds Crowd Royal Victoria Theatre to Hear Great Army Leader; Speakers Tell of Possibilities of Unity.

A sincere plea for unity of ex-service men throughout Canada from one of the world's greatest soldiers, was made by Field Marshal Earl Haig, commander-in-chief of the British Army during the Great War, who last night addressed one of the largest meetings of war veterans ever held in Victoria. The floor of the Royal Victoria theatre was crowded with the soldiers who had seen service in France, and differences and conflicting opinions were lost when, with the same spirit, they rose to greet their old leader and to sing the same songs that cheered them on the roads of Flanders.

BROUGHT SUCCESS

"A desire for unity brought success to the cause of ex-service men in Great Britain," claimed Field Marshal Earl Haig. "With the idea of unity came the first real progress of ex-service men in the right direction.

"I sincerely believe the same beneficial results will follow as they did in the case of the Old Country movement, if the Dominion bodies strive towards and accomplish union," said the Earl.

DIFFICULTIES AHEAD

"I fully recognize the difficulties that are ahead of such a movement but given the good will and real endeavor these can be overcome. Your difficulties in Canada may seem greater than they did in the Old Country, but your need of them is greater, farther away from the reminders of war as you are.

"For the good of Canadian ex-service men, their dependents and Canada herself, a united body of veterans should be established in Canada. The good that would be accomplished would be far greater than the aggregate of all ex-service organizations of to-day. And it will grow.

"I am told that there are nearly eighty per cent of ex-service men in Canada who do not belong to any organization at all, but a united body will perhaps attract these men. This was found to be the case in the British Isles.

"I appeal to all to unite in one great non-political, non-sectarian organization of ex-service men," said Field Marshal Earl Haig in conclusion of his address.

TELLS OF PROGRESS

Greeted by rousing cheers, Earl Haig, beloved of Canada's and Britain's soldiers, came to the platform, accompanied by members of his party. Old army songs were sung, and the band of the 16th Canadian Scottish struck up lively airs during the evening.

His first remarks, after thanking the citizens of Victoria for the welcome they had given, and after referring to the manner in which he had been received by ex-service men in Canada generally, spoke of the successful formulation of the great British Legion, the Old Land's foremost organization of ex-service men, and probably the only one existing.

A ROYAL CHARTER

Granted a royal charter, this organization actually combines the veterans of the British army in one single unit, with a high-minded purpose, to protect and work for the welfare of the maimed soldiers, the widows and orphans and the good of the ex-service men and the country as a whole. It is a great ideal and it is being well achieved through unrestrained and unmitigated effort.

A PERMANENT BODY

Earl Haig stated that the British Legion was permanent, so far as any human organization could be permanent. One of its works was the collection and direction of contributions from generous persons which supplemented the relief of the government. And it was able to exercise a powerful influence for its members and for the good of the communities separately and in unison.

"We are proud of our achievement," said Earl Haig. "What has enabled us to achieve? How have we gained success?" He answered his own questions.

"It is no secret," he continued. "We owe our progress to the fact that soon after the Armistice arose the strong desire for unity amongst ex-service men. I hope that that desire exists in Canada to-day. This desire for unity will bring success.

"In the face of opposition from within and without the British Legion now exists and is doing great good. The same results will follow in Canada. Personal jealousies will be overcome, and the united body will champion the cause of ex-service men, and be an example of patriotism and public duty, at the same time standing for law and order, as did the British Legion.

Col. C. W. Peck introduced the great Field Marshal with a few words.

"All great soldiers," he said, "are affected with modesty. Not soldier politicians like me," he added, "but great leaders, and Field Marshal Haig's address will be short tonight. This may be one of the reasons."

"We want all returned men to turn out to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to bid Earl Haig an adieu," said Col. Peck. And he added that he knew this would be a pleasant duty. A burst of applause and laughter greeted this remark, in which Earl Haig heartily joined.

LEGION'S POWER

J. R. Griffin, conference secretary of the British Legion, took the platform after Earl Haig and gave a brief resume of the British Legion's past, telling of the greater powers which the returned men had now that they were organized into one body, and of the same good effects which might be expected should Canada follow their example.

AUSTRALIA'S WORD

Comrade S. E. Duggan of Australia where, he said, the ex-service men are organized in one great unit, the Returned Soldiers' and Sailors' Imperial League of Australia, told of the benefits to be derived of this centering of strength. With divided opinions and differing methods, he said, the same degree or success could not be attained.

"The opportunity to qualify for membership in our organization has passed, and we trust to God it will not occur again," he said, "but surely the men who led the fighting in France and Mesopotamia are equally capable of facing their country's problems in times of peace." This assertion was greeted with terrific applause.

SECOND CHAIRMAN

Earl Haig and his party were forced to leave the meeting in the Royal Victoria early last night and Col. Peck gave his seat as chairman to Joshua Hinchliffe, M.P.P.

Mr. Hinchliffe made a few remarks to the meeting before putting two motions, and said that the ex-service men of Canada had not been treated justly since the war.

"No government since the war has done justice to the returned soldier," he said at one point. During his remarks a member of the audience cried: "Leave politics of this this," and there were also a few shouts of "sit down" after which the speaker proceeded without interruption. He put two motions, the second of which was passed unanimously and the first by a huge majority.

UNITY VOTE

The resolution passed in favor of the unity movement of returned men was as follows:

"That this massed meeting of veterans, attached and unattached, unanimously endorse the move towards unity fostered by Field Marshal Earl Haig, and recommend to chartered organizations that they take such steps as may be necessary in their own organizations in the interest of union and amalgamation."

A resolution in welcome of Earl Haig read thus:

"That this meeting extends to Field Marshal Haig its hearty thanks for his splendid and inspiring address this evening, and express to him its high appreciation for his leadership in the movement for union of all ex-service organizations and men in Canada, and pledges itself to use every effort to consummate this union."

TRAIN KILLED MAN

Calgary, July 14.—The mangled remains of a man identified as John Benedictson, Markerville, were found on the C.P.R. tracks here Sunday morning. The man who had been in Calgary for the Stampede, was a storekeeper in the little Danish settlement west of Innisfail. He was a friend of Prince Erik of Denmark, who studied farming in the Markerville district for some years. The body remained unidentified for more than twenty-four hours, until viewed by a friend on Monday.

HOPE TO AID IN SOLVING PROBLEMS

Toronto, July 14.—S. B. Gundy, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, has had encouraging responses to his suggestion to boards of trade and chambers of commerce throughout Canada for a "get-together" movement between the various provinces.

The presidents of the Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal, Halifax and Toronto Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce have joined in inviting representatives of the boards of trade and chambers of commerce to an informal conference to be held in the early Fall, in a non-racial, non-creedal and non-political effort to have all parts of Canada unite in the solution of the country's problems.

FINE WOODWORK

LAMPS STANDARDS

Lamps that shed a cheery pool of friendly light by favorite chair—they are friends we grow to love! So graceful, so distinctively designed, age only mellows the richness of the fine polished wood base.

Lamp Standards from Lemon-Gonnason have a singularly exclusive appearance—an appearance that makes them treasured family possessions, and in the years to come, heirlooms, even!

We make lamps to harmonize with the furniture and finishings of the room in which you wish to place it.
